Mansfield Autoist Charged With Manslaughter in One of Other Cases.

Recalled into session by a heavy docket of cases, the September grand jury today returned 17 indictments after considering 18 cases.

Six of the indictments were open, and 11 sub rosa. However, it was believed that the sub rosa indictments were minor ones, as is the custom on non-support and similar cases when the person indicted is not in custody, or indictments on other charges against persons named in open indictments.

Most important case acted on by the jury was that of George Call, Sharon township, who was indicted on charges of rape and attempted rape.

Call, a former WPA worker, stands accused of molesting two Richland county girls, one of whom he is said to have assaulted. The other resisted his advances successfully.

Inmate Indicted in Attack.

Also indicted was Ralph Copeland, inmate of the Ohio State reformatory. He is charged with assault with intent to kill, following his attack with a heavy stick of wood on Charles J. McFadden, a guard at the institution.

Paul Paraske was named in an indictment charging him with manslaughter, growing out of a fatal traffic accident west of Mansfield.

George Fancher, Mansfield and Earl Montgomery, Zanesville, were indicted on charges of armed robbery. They were accused of forcing Harold Stauffer, Mansfield, at the point of a gun, to drive them toward Bucyrus, where they robbed him of a few cents in change and took his car. They were arrested in Marion a few hours later, with $100 hidden under the seat of Stauffer's car still intact.

Another indictment, one of automobile theft, was returned against Alvin Guthrie.

The jury had been in session since yesterday morning, ending its deliberations shortly after noon today.

Time of arraignment of accused men was not set immediately.

WHEAT JITTERY

Price Tumbles 5 Cents, Then Climbs, Settles at $1.08.

Jittery wheat prices, which climbed past a dollar last week for the first time in two years, dropped five cents today but quickly went up three, so the top price in Mansfield finally settled at $1.08.

The five-cent drop was one of the sharpest price breaks in recent years and marked the first major reaction the market has had since the sharp advance last week.

There was heavy profit selling as the Chicago grain pit opened today, and in Mansfield farmers continued to market their wheat at the rate of two or three thousand bushels a day.

Fugitive Pugilist, Wanted in New York Murder, Caught in Toronto Today.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—John J. Ryan, assistant chief police inspector announced today that Ernie Haas, 28, a pugilist, had been arrested in Toronto, Canada for the killing of Dr. Walter Engelberg, secretary of the German consulate here.

Ryan said Haas acknowledged he beat Engelberg to death in his Brooklyn home on Dec. 5. Haas' statement, Ryan said, was made to Captain Frank Bals, Brooklyn detective.

A woman, Ryan said, unwittingly led to Haas' arrest.

The woman went to a Brooklyn department store to buy an electric train and other toys. While she was being waited on she talked with a sales girl about the Engelberg case and mentioned Haas' name and the fact that she was going to Toronto.

The sales girl secretly notified the store manager. Police were called and the woman was trailed.

Dr. Engelberg's body was found 24 hours after the slaying by another consulate employee who went to the Brooklyn house to see why Dr. Engelberg had not reported for work on two successive days.

Neighbors of Dr. Engelberg, who was a German university graduate and a veteran in the consular service, told the police he had been in the habit of entertaining men at the house.

President Sends Telegram of Sympathy to Brown's Widow.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Headed by President Roosevelt, persons in all walks of life today paid tribute to Heywood Brown, 51, newspaper guild, who died yesterday of pneumonia.

In a telegram of sympathy to Brown's widow, President Roosevelt said "he will be missed and mourned particularly by the underprivileged whose staunch champion he always was." A solemn requiem mass will be celebrated tomorrow morning at St. Patrick's cathedral for Brown.

PUBLISHER DIES

T. E. Amos, 74, of Cambridge, Was Head of Jeffersonian Newspaper.

CAMBRIDGE—(AP)—T. E. Amos, 74, president and general manager of the Jeffersonian, evening newspaper, died early today in his home of a heart attack. He had been ill for several days.

Amos succeeded his father, the late John W. Amos, as publisher of the Jeffersonian. He also was president of the Citizens Savings bank.

On two fronts, war had moved into the air today. Russian bombers appeared over Helsinki and other cities on the south coast of Finland but were driven off without being able to do much damage. On the western front, British and German planes clashed again as Britain continued its new policy of carrying the air war to the enemy. Germans claimed that in the first battle, yesterday, they had downed 34 British fighters, but Britain countered with the claim that a much smaller number of British ships were unaccounted for, while the Germans had suffered heavy losses. Today, British airmen renewed their attack on the Heligoland naval base. The Germans claimed they were driven off by planes and anti-aircraft defenses.

Declares Labor Board Can't Discriminate Against 'Reds'

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Philip G. Phillips, regional director for the National Labor Relations board at Cincinnati, told house investigators today that Communists are entitled to the same protection under the Wagner act as are members of other political parties, so long as they are not engaged in subversive activities.

"There's nothing in the act that says a Communist is not entitled to its protection," Phillips declared.

He spoke in reply to a question by Chairman Smith (D., Va.) of the committee investigating the labor board and the Wagner labor relations act.

Smith had asked whether the board took the position that employers are compelled to employ Communists.

"It is pretty generally known, or pretty generally believed throughout the country," Smith said by way of introducing the question, "that the Communist party is a party whose principle is chiefly to foment trouble and to promote revolution and bring about the same form of government that exists in Russia."

When Phillips started to reply Rev. Murdock (D., Utah) stopped him to inquire whether the witness could speak authoritatively for the board. Phillips said he could not.

"Then speak for yourself," Smith instructed.

The witness, asserting that the act afforded the same protection to Communists as to persons of other political beliefs, said he did not believe that an employer would have to keep in his employ anyone who advocated violence.

He declared, however, that he did not think the way to show that a person advocated violence

HUNTERS JAILED

2 Bellville Men Held After Row With Richland Farmer.

Two Bellville hunters were held in the county jail today for investigation after one of them allegedly attacked Bert Walters, Washington township farmer, who had ordered them from his property last night.

Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman said one of the men contended Walters had hit him first and that he struck the farmer with his rifle in self defense. The hunter had been struck in the mouth, Freeman said. No charge had been filed against either of the men at noon today.

The two hunters were taken into custody early today at Bellville as they returned from an all-night hunting trip. Deputies Freeman and J. R. Hetler made the arrests.

Hoover Cables $100,000 To Finns; City's Fund at $415

Herbert Hoover, director of the Finnish Relief Fund, today cabled $100,000 to Prime Minister Risto Ryti of Finland for the relief of civilians being evacuated from Central and Eastern Finland.

Meanwhile Mansfield's contribution to the fund had passed the $400 mark today when an additional $15.45 was turned in. This brings the total of the Mansfield fund to $415.48. The News-Journal, acting as a transmitting agent for the fund, will accept contributions in cash or checks.

Those who contributed to the Mansfield fund today were Mrs. Ella Frasier, 74 Wood street; Harold Greenberger, 215 Penn Avenue; Honey Creek Samaritan club, Bellville; Rev. Grover Swyer, 115 Helen avenue; Frank Hauserman, 36 Blanche street; H. E. McAllister, 194 Fairlawn avenue; Aletha Lorenz, Arthur avenue; Mrs. J. E. Lautbaugh, Park avenue west road; Mary H. Cochel, Lucas; O. A. Koons, 10 Bradford avenue; and several anonymous gifts.

YULE RUSH ON AT POST OFFICE

97,000 Cards, Letters Mailed, 140,000 Stamps Sold in One Day.

The annual Christmas rush was on today at the Mansfield post-office with business for the first few days already way ahead of last year.

Yesterday, first day of the rush, a total of 97,000 greeting cards and letters were mailed at the office, Postmaster Herman E. Homberger said today. This includes 67,000 cards and letters canceled at the office and 30,000 metered letters sent in from the various business houses and factories.

Sale of postage stamps of the smaller denominations also was heavy, with a total of 140,000 being sold, Homberger reported. These included 90,000 one-and-a-half cent stamps, 10,000 one-cent, 10,000 two-cent, and 30,000 three-cent stamps.

Although there were no figures available on parcel post business, Homberger pointed out that it was much heavier than in past years.

To handle the huge volume of Christmas mail, 32 additional men have been added to the postal

Council to Vote on Bill Turning Relief Over to County, Keep It in Democratic Hands.

SPECIAL SESSION CALLED

Mayor Admits Measure Has Its Political Phases But Holds Staff Should Be Retained.

City council will decide tonight whether to turn the administration of relief back to the county and save the jobs of five Democratic appointees or let the new Republican administration take over—and there wasn't much doubt about the decision if all the Democratic councilmen show up.

A bill to shift relief back to the Democratic county commissioners will get its third and final reading at a special session of council and only a majority is needed to pass it. The Democrats hold a five-four edge in council.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter said the measure "has its political phase," although the transfer of relief administration to the county "has been contemplated for some time," he added.

Says Staff Experienced.

"By turning relief over to the county commissioners now it will secure the jobs of the people employed in the relief office," the mayor said. "They are experienced workers and I think it is better to have them than to have inexperienced workers put in when the new administration takes office."

Under the present set-up, Republican Mayor-Elect William J. Locke would have the power to remove the relief director and at least four employees of the relief office.

At the first reading of the measure Dec. 5, C. N. Shultz, Republican Second ward councilman, temporarily stalled the move to have the relief jobs by requesting that action be deferred and the bill be given three readings. A (Continued on Page 7, Col. 6)

HONOR BRISTOR

Schools Close Early Tomorrow for Funeral of Clerk.

Mansfield public schools will close at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday as a tribute to Dr. John H. Bristor, clerk of the board of education for 31 years, who died Sunday night at Killbuck, Holmes county.

The school board at a meeting last night authorized the early dismissal of classes to permit teachers and pupils to attend funeral services for Dr. Bristor at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday in the First Presbyterian church.

The five members of the board of education and J. B. Moke, superintendent of buildings will be pallbearers at the funeral. Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in which Dr. Bristor held a number of offices, will officiate. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Planes Drop Charges Outside Cities Along Coast, Do Little Damage; British and German Airmen Continue Major Clashes.

By WEBB MILLER, United Press Staff Correspondent

HELSINKI, Finland—Soviet Russian airplanes roared along the entire southern coast of Finland today, dodging heavy Finnish anti-aircraft fire and dropping a dozen bombs in the Helsinki area. Police reported that the only casualty was a black crow—killed by a 660-pound aerial bomb.

Finnish batteries, greatly strengthened since the last Red aerial raid two weeks ago, fired volley after volley at the Russian planes in the Helsinki district, at Abo (Turku) on the southwestern tip of Finland and along the upper Vyoksi river, where large Finnish power plants are located. American capital estimated at $10,000,000 is invested in the plants.

Messages indicated that bombs were dropped only at the town of Lumarinkula, near Helsinki, and that there was no serious damage.

It was disclosed, however, that Soviet planes yesterday had raided Viipuri (Viborg), on the Gulf of Finland coast and dropped bombs, one of which the Finnish news agency said fell near a Red Cross hospital.

The planes were reported to have turned machine gun fire on the streets, killing a woman.

Reports persisted that the Russian planes dropped parachutes during today's raids, but police failed to find any. It was believed they might have dropped propaganda pamphlets rather than have attempted to land soldiers behind the Finnish lines.

The air-alarms at Abo were at 11:15 a. m. when three planes flew over the city and at 1 p. m. alarms were sounded at Imatra at 9:28 a. m. and at 10:20 a. m. but the planes were not sighted.

There were reports that Sveaborg fortress outside Helsinki port had been bombed and that one Russian plane was shot down, but officials lacked confirmation.

Although no bombs fell in the center of Helsinki, there were heavy detonations to the north, in the vicinity of the airport, that might have been those of bombs. Twelve planes were reported to have been in the flight.

Other air raids were reported yesterday all along the south coast.

Finnish sources have said that the next time Helsinki was bombed the Finns would bomb Leningrad, teeming Russian city of 3,500,000 only 40 miles from the Finnish front in Karelia.

It was reported that the Russians had renewed their terrific land attacks on the Mannerheim line in Karelia, in spite of heavy losses, apparently believing that Finland's small man-power cannot long endure incessant pounding.

T R A P: Was British-Sold Oil Bait That Caught Graf Spee?

(By Associated Press)

MONTEVIDEO—Naval sources intimated today the Admiral Graf Spee's fatal encounter with three British warships in the South Atlantic was no accident, but really a trap that these sources said a German freighter attempted to buy.

From a British concern at an undisclosed Brazilian port 10 days before the engagement of last Wednesday. At first it was refused, but later was supplied on instructions from headquarters.

Capt. Hans Langsdorff, commander of the German pocket battleship, said he was cruising off the coast of Brazil in search of a rendezvous with the supply ship Tacoma when he sighted the British cruiser Exeter.

Turning southward, he found himself in the presence of two more British cruisers, the Ajax and Achilles. Lack of fuel forced him to fight at a disadvantage, the German commander told port authorities, and he eventually ran for cover in Montevideo, only to take his shell-battered ship out of port Sunday night and sink it with his own hands.

The British counted on locating the raider in the South Atlantic was indicated by the concentration of warships there.

In mid-November, the cruisers Cumberland, Exeter and Ajax arrived in Buenos Aires in the space of two days. These three are the entire normal cruiser strength of the British South Atlantic division. (Continued on Page 7, Col. 2)

HELP: Allies Prepare To Give Finland 'Material' Aid

(By Associated Press)

PARIS—The Allied supreme war council was reported today to have decided to give all moral and material aid possible to Finland without weakening their own war with Germany. It was understood that the main subject under consideration at the three-hour meeting was the possibility of giving effective aid to the Finns in their stand against Russia.

Prime Minister Chamberlain, who has been in France inspecting British troops, attended the meeting. Premier Daladier also attended.

The war council's reported decision to aid Finland was in keeping with the League of Nations resolution condemning Russia as an aggressor and calling upon league members to give Finland material and moral assistance.

The council's concern with diplomatic as well as military affairs was suggested by the presence of Auguste de Champetier de Ribes, under secretary of foreign affairs, and Alexis Leger, secretary-general of the French foreign office. On the western front, military

Risks Life Vainly In Falling Plane to Save Companion

PILOT BRINGS SHIP DOWN AT NEEDLESS RISK

Crew Member He Thought Still Aboard Had Jumped, Failed to Open His Parachute.

(By United Press)
HILL CITY, Kan.—Through the dusk at 2,500 feet flew a two-motored army bomber.

Suddenly both motors coughed and died. Pilot Lieut. Harold E. Neely switched to the emergency fuel tanks and tried to start the motors again. They didn't start.

He leveled off to make his decision. He could abandon the ship and save the lives of the three men in his crew and his own. Or he could try an emergency landing. Below, the earth was grayish muck and he could distinguish nothing. The plane was slowly losing altitude.

"Abandon ship," he commanded through the speaking tube to the three men in the rear. Adjusting his own parachute and keeping the ship level, he watched the air below.

A white ball exploded below him, dropping away. It was an opening parachute.

A few seconds later, another ball exploded below him and dropped away.

He eased out of his seat, still holding the ship level. When he saw the third parachute open, he would go himself.

He waited. He saw nothing. He shouted imperiously. There was no response. Quite evidently, something had happened to prevent the third man jumping.

Lieut. Neely had a new decision to make. He could abandon the ship and save his own life, but he would doom a member of his crew who, for a reason he didn't know, had failed to jump. Or he could try that forced landing—and perhaps save his own life and the other.

He held his ship as level as he could and let it glide. For all he knew, it would crash into the side of a hill or a tree or some other object any instant. But it glided for two miles and bounced into a field, finally dragging to a stop.

Lieut. Neely pulled himself out of the wreckage and tore into the rear compartment.

The compartment was empty. The man had jumped.

But as Lieut. Neely discovered later, his parachute hadn't opened. He had forgotten to take off his gloves before jumping and his gloved hands had been unable to manipulate the rip cord.

Farmers found the body of Private Kenneth C. Seamans, 27, of Scranton, Pa. He had fallen 2,000 feet.

Lieut. John O. Neal and Private Henry F. Zielinski, Georgetown, Ill., after landing with their parachutes, made their way to town.

The plane was flying from Lowery field, Denver, to Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill.

Up and Down THE STREET

George A. Schneider, 10 Buffalo street, is one man who believes in dividing up the honors. After he was unanimously elected president of the Barbers' union, Local 352, for the 17th consecutive year last night, Schneider declined to take the office, contending that "it was about time to give someone else a chance at the presidency." The local then named Walter Mapes to the office.

J. Russell Murphy, former Mansfield high school athletic director, was back in these parts again today, combining a pleasure trip with business. Now a coach at Cornell university, Murphy still has a warm spot in his heart for Mansfield where he coached 15 years. He will spend Christmas with friends in the city after scouting the Ohio State and Toledo U. basketball teams which his school plays this winter.

Mrs. Susan Blymyer, one of Mansfield's oldest former residents who left here three years ago to make her home with a granddaughter in Wilmette, Ill., celebrated her 97th birthday Saturday. Mrs. Blymyer lives with her own daughter, Mrs. Olive Glover, and her granddaughter, Mrs. Robert Shireman, formerly Margery Glover of this city.

Although the new Johnny Applesed junior high school is not expected to be ready for use for more than a month, the Mansfield P. T. A. council already has its bid in for use of the auditorium March 13. The board of education figured last night that it is still too early to start making promises, so it deferred action on the council's request. Mrs. Milo Hieber, president of the council, asked for the auditorium for a district P. T. A. meeting.

ADMIT ROBBERY

2 Boys Who Entered Gasoline Station Put on Probation.

Two boys, 14 and 17 years old, were placed on probation and released today by Probate Judge Charles J. Anderson after they had confessed robbing a filling station and shoplifting in the 5 and 10 cent stores.

The boys were apprehended by Harry Copper, special officer for the probate court, and E. C. Fuller, police identification officer.

They confessed breaking into a filling station at Ford and South Diamond streets last Friday night and taking money and merchandise, and also to shoplifting in stores. The officers recovered six cartons of cigarettes, $18.75 in cash and other merchandise.

DEATH CLAIMS C. W. M'PHERN, 63

Spent Entire Life In This Vicinity, Rites to Be Held Thursday.

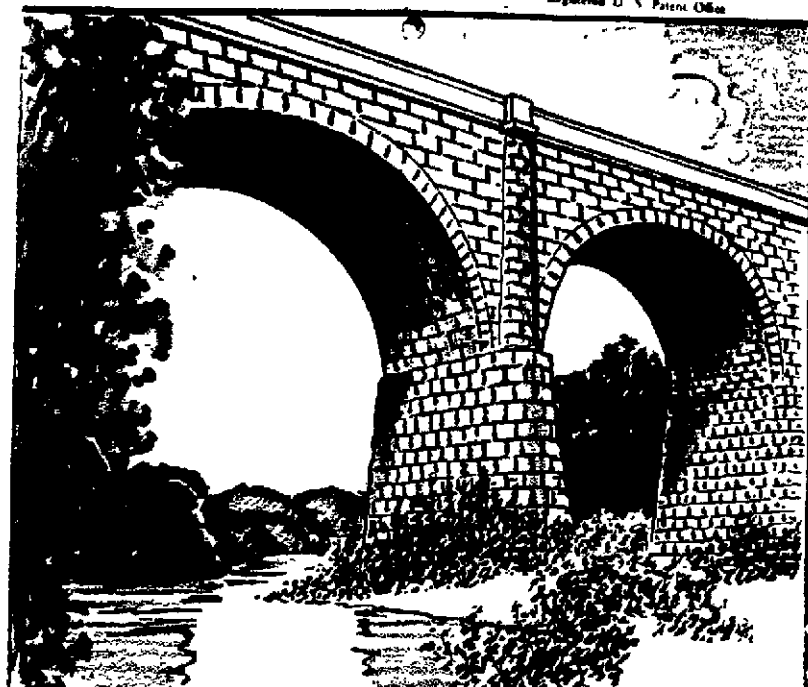

Charles Warren McPhern, 63, died at the Ludwig Convalescent home, West Fourth street road, today after an extended illness. Mr. McPhern was born near Little Washington, March 12, 1876, and spent his entire life in this vicinity.

The survivors include a son, James E. McPhern; a daughter, Mrs. Howard Straub; three sisters, Mrs. Willis Leech, and Mrs. Frank Emptage of Mansfield and Mrs. J. C. Stamen of near Mansfield, and two grandchildren, Robert L. Straub and James E. McPhern, Jr., of Mansfield.

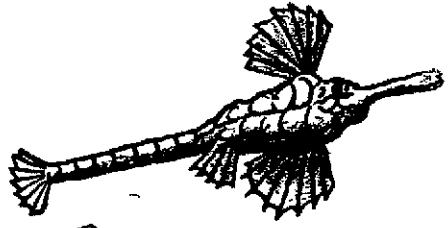

The body was removed to the Finck funeral home where services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Thursday with Rev. H. S. Garmes of the St. Luke's Lutheran church officiating. Burial will be in the Little Washington cemetery.

BRUCE NAMED ACTING CLERK

Member of Board of Education to Serve Until Bristor's Successor Is Chosen.

Harold A. Bruce, member of the Mansfield board of education, was chosen clerk of the board last night to serve out the unexpired term of Dr. John H. Bristor who died Sunday night after holding the post for 31 years.

Bruce was elected by the board on a motion by Alvin H. Fankhauser. He will serve without pay since board members receive no salary. Dr. Bristor's term expires Dec. 31, 1939. At that time the board will hold another election to choose a clerk for 1940.

Bruce took over the clerk's duties as soon as he was elected. J. B. Moke, superintendent of buildings, was acting clerk until Bruce was chosen.

Supt. W. L. Miller urged the immediate election of a clerk because an acting clerk is not authorized to issue checks for the board, he said.

The board retained Miss A. Holmes as secretary to the clerk at a slight increase in pay. She was employed several months ago to assist Dr. Bristor because of the additional bookkeeping required for the city's million-dollar school building program.

BARBERS ELECT

Mapes Named President of Local 352 at Annual Election.

Walter Mapes was chosen president of the Barbers' union, local 352, at the annual election of officers last night at Trades-council hall. He succeeds George A. Schneider, president for the past 16 years, who declined his 17th consecutive term after being unanimously re-elected again.

Other officers elected were Harry Ubel, vice president; W. H. Scott, secretary-treasurer; Eugene Boring, recorder, and James Byers, guide.

SHOT AT BY EX-GIRL FRIEND, YOUTH SENT TO REFORMATORY

(By International News Service)
CLEVELAND—Joseph Quirino, 20, today was to start an indeterminate sentence in Mansfield reformatory as the result of his becoming a target for four shots fired by Miss Josephine Costanza, 23.

Although they had had several dates, Miss Costanza last July sought to discontinue them, but Quirino continued to attempt to force his attentions upon her. The girl had her would-be suitor arrested on a charge of carrying concealed weapons and also charged him with striking her.

He was given a $50 fine and a suspended workhouse sentence on the second charge and pleaded guilty on the first. Common Pleas Judge Frank S. Day placed Quirino on probation on condition he stay away from the girl.

Yesterday when he showed up at her home with his mother, Miss Costanza fired two shots at him through the front door and two more after he had broken in, she told police who arrived as she struggled with Quirino for possession of the revolver.

A few hours later, Judge Day ordered the probation revoked and sentenced the youth to the reformatory.

DEATH CLAIMS JOSEPH STAMM

Holmes County Native Dies Near Little Washington At Age 80.

Joseph Stamm, 80, a resident of this vicinity 40 years, died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kiser, one mile south of Little Washington, yesterday after a brief illness. He was born in Holmes county, March 15, 1859.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Samuel Berger of Mansfield; four grandchildren and one great-grandchild, and nieces and nephews, including Mrs. Kiser.

The body was removed to the Wapner funeral home where services will be held at 1 p. m. Thursday with Rev. J. E. Marshall of the St. Mark's Lutheran church officiating. Burial will be in Greenview cemetery, Perryville.

QUIZZED AFTER ACCIDENT, TELLS TRAGIC SECRET

Facing Manslaughter Charge, He Reveals He Fired Fatal Shot Six Years Ago.

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS — Questioned by police about an automobile-bus collision Sunday in which three persons were killed, an 18-year-old boy tearfully admitted slaying his brother accidentally six years ago.

The youth, Lewis Nixten, Jr., was charged with second degree manslaughter in the traffic mishap.

Nixten wanted to keep the truth about his brother's death from his parents forever. They believed that their son, George, shot himself accidentally while playing with his father's pistol.

Lewis and another brother, 16-year-old Robert, finally divulged their secret last night.

Police Capt. Thomas A. Scully quoted Lewis as saying the three brothers — Lewis, Robert and George — were left unchaperoned in their Kenton home one winter night six years ago while their parents attended a dance.

Young George removed his father's pistol from a trunk and, believing it unloaded, the boys began to play with it, Scully continued.

Pointed Gun, Fired.

Lewis — then 12 years old — pointed the gun at George and pulled the trigger several times without effect, but eventually it fired a shot into George's chest, the officers said. George died two days later.

Panic-stricken, Lewis and Robert told their parents George tripped with the gun in his hand and shot himself.

Charged with Nixten in connection with the fatal crash was Eugene Turner, 18.

Scully asserted reckless driving by Nixten and Turner contributed to the collision of Turner's car with the bus. Nixten, the officer said, was driving close behind Turner but managed to avoid the pileup.

Killed in the accident were Quincy Bell, 15; Richard Flegelstahler, 16, and Betty Jane Melvin, 14, all passengers in Turner's machine. Six other persons, including two pedestrians, were injured. There were no passengers in the bus, but its driver was hurt.

ENDS OWN LIFE

Shelby Barber, 67, Found Dead in Shed Near Home.

SHELBY—Thomas Pemberton, 67, a barber here for nearly 30 years, was found dead yesterday afternoon in a shed at the rear of his home, the victim of a self-inflicted bullet.

His wife, Daisy, who heard the shot, found the body in a small shed at the rear of the home. Coroner Hugh C. Wimbler gave a verdict of suicide. Dr. Wimbler said the bullet entered Pemberton's head and he was killed instantly. A revolver was found near the body with a piece of string tied to the trigger.

Born June 10, 1872, in Denver, Colo., Mr. Pemberton came to Shelby about 30 years ago, and had been a barber here since.

Surviving besides his wife are a son, Russell K. of Shelby, and a daughter, Mrs. Earl Smith of Shelby, who is now at Sun Valley, Idaho. Private funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Thursday with Rev. D. Bruce Young, pastor of First Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Extraditing Pander No Routine Matter When It Comes to Willie Bioff

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—If you will now fix your attention on Springfield, Ill., you will observe the next operation in the feat of springing the pander, which is not a comical Chinese bear but a much lower form of animal life and has been regarded as vermin from the beginning of time to the date of these presents.

This afternoon a hearing will be held in Springfield on a demand for papers to extradite from Los Angeles to Chicago Mr. Willie Bioff, the distinguished labor boss of the entire American amusement industry, who formerly made his living by exacting from a fallen lady a share of the money she earned by prostitution in an uncommonly vile and dirty brothel on South Halsted street.

Mr. Bioff has owed almost six months and $300 for this offense ever since 1922, and meanwhile, as representative of the great Chicago vice and labor rackets, has become a rich labor leader in the studio trades in Hollywood and boss of the projection rooms of most of the movie theaters in the United States.

He achieved this high position in labor's household, although he had never been known to work except at pandering and tending bar in a house of prostitution and never was elected to any position in any union.

The fact that he was a convicted vicemonger and fugitive was disclosed on Nov. 22, and he was arrested in Los Angeles on Nov. 24 on a request from Thomas J. Courtney, the prosecutor of Cook county, Illinois.

Ordinarily, when a prosecutor wants to extradite a criminal, particularly a pander, the governor signs the requisition as a routine matter and sends it off to the governor of the state which is holding the fugitive. But Mr. Abe Marovitz, counsel for Mr. Bioff, whose character and wisdom adorn the Illinois state senate as well as the bar, has been able to delay not only the signing of the requisition but the hearing on the question whether Governor Henry Horner will sign it at all.

Mr. Marovitz is a truly illustrious specimen of Chicago culture and statesmanship. He is a neighbor and close associate of Mr. Jake Arvey, the noted Democratic boss who is chairman of the finance committee of the city council and counselor and friend of Mayor Ed. Kelly. It will be seen that Mr.

Marovitz gets around with the very best people in Chicago and observes that he is not without political influence.

Gov. Horner received the request for the requisition on Nov. 28, and on Mr. Marovitz's request a hearing was set for Dec. 7. But, meanwhile, Mr. Marovitz asked for a further delay until Dec. 22, when the sweet spirit of the season might do no harm to a labor leader, who, as a mischievous, good-natured racketeer of 24 years, shook down a hard-working harlot in a west side Chicago dump after a busy day.

Neither Mr. Courtney nor anyone else except Willie Bioff and a few persons in his old line of business could understand why all this process should be necessary for the extradition of a common pander.

Nevertheless, the hearing has been set for today and today those American workmen and women who have had to pay initiation fees up to $3,000, plus income taxes and assessments, to Bioff's unions for permission to work at their occupations, will hear the reasons why Mr. Marovitz thinks he should not be brought back to serve his time.

But regardless of Gov. Horner's decision, it seems improbable that Mr. Bioff will be brought back.

Thanks to the long delay obtained by Mr. Bioff's counsel here, he persuaded the Los Angeles authorities to release him without bond on the promise that the state of Illinois has taken too much time. So, now even if extradition be granted, he may ship over the state lines indefinitely unless, of course, something should happen in the federal courts to detain him in one place for a considerable spell.

That this should happen is unthinkable. Here is a matter of $100,000, whether loan, gift or bribe, which has aroused the interest of the treasury regarding which more doubtless will be heard presently from Los Angeles.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

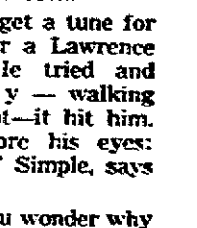

HOLLYWOOD — After you talk to a song-writer you wonder why song-writers don't go crazy. When you hear some of their songs you wonder, of course, if they haven't gone crazy already, but that's three little fishes or a little red fox of another color. (N'ya, n'ya, you can't catch me.)

I've just been talking to Jimmy McHugh. He writes tunes. Many of our best musicians never bothered with lyrics (look at the Bachs and Beethovens) and neither does Jimmy McHugh. He leaves the words to fellows like Al Dubin, who was his partner on that "South American Way" thing which is driving me crazy.

Jimmy McHugh isn't crazy, but then he's accustomed to the business by now. He's been doing more than a decade He's had hits, too—enough of them to keep him, for the past five years, on the AA (or top) ranking of the American Society of Composers and Publishers (ASCAP). The ASCAP classification committee rearranges that ranking every four months, so a fellow on top has to keep mighty busy.

Now just set yourself down in a cozy chair and think up a hit for us. Not today, you say? But song-writers have to think about it all the time. And the maddening thing is, they never can be sure what will strike the jackpot. Look (says Jimmy McHugh) at what happened to "I Can't Give You Anything But Love." He was working with Lyricist Dorothy Fields then, and Dorothy thought up the title, to which Jimmy added the word "baby." It worked out fine. They spotted it in a show called "Delmar's Revue" and Patsy Kelly sang it. The show folded, nothing happened.

The McHugh-Fields team went to work on a show for Lew Leslie, "Blackbirds of 1928." They had everything but a smash hit. They put in "I Can't Give You Anything But Love," which was fine except they already had a "baby" song in the show. They changed "baby" to "Lindy" in the Atlantic City try-out. Nothing happened, except that their "baby" song died. In New York they dropped the "Lindy" and tried the

Do Female Sirens Recover?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A man has written me a letter asking if a female siren ever recovers from the flirtatious stage.

It seems this gentleman married a widow whom he found utterly charming until he installed her in his home. Before he was married he did not object to her wiles because they were all directed toward him, or at least it seemed that way.

The lady had two daughters, aged respectively 6 and 16, and they both "take after" mother. They are out to charm everyone, from the apartment house janitor who removes the ashes from the dumb waiter, to their stepfather's friend—a clergyman.

The little six-year old, it seems, is as adept at the game as the other two. She rolls her eyes, pirouettes, flatters, and is a great hand at taking her picture book, climbing on the arm of any male guest's chair and getting him to explain the pictures. They fall for it.

The gentlemen callers also enjoy the wiles of the 16-year old daughter, and the more mature "come hither" glances of the mother are even more appreciated. But the husband—he had been a bachelor of long standing—is not submitted to a barrage of charm at his own fireside, and is distinctly bored. He writes and anxiously inquires if born flirts ever change.

I'm afraid there's not much comfort to be handed out on that score.

There really seems to be nothing for this gentleman to do but to make the best of his bargain. His wife and stepdaughters will probably be easy on the eyes. That type of femininity always is. And his house will be attractive, because a siren sees to it that she has a becoming background. But it's really too bad that they've cut down three-fourths of their charm, flattery and desire to please, on the gentleman who pays the bills.

I take it from this letter, which I'd love to print as a human document except it's far too long and revealing, that his wife is merely flirtatious, and nothing worse. She isn't a homewrecker who carries her philandering to the danger point. Some lady philanthropists achieve the 33rd degree, and every man married or single, is fair game for them.

The tragic end of such a philanthropist happened in New York recently. Her husband, to whom the unfortunate woman had been married only seven months, couldn't stand his wife's continual love affairs. He shot her, walked ten blocks to the nearest police station and gave himself up.

At least my correspondent has not that sort of problem on his hands, and while living in a world of blandishments—directed to

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"I'm sure Father doesn't mean that we're not capable of sharing in the real work before him," I said. "But, you know, he always shields me as much as he can from anything unpleasant, and I simply haven't the heart to tell him how much I resent the shielding. And you haven't been—"

"I hesitated, and Dicky finished the sentence for me. 'I haven't been where I could be any use to anybody,' he said bitterly. 'I've only been a liability, an added worry to all of you, and all on account of my own cursed folly.'"

It was no time for half-way measures. We had been walking down the hall, and were just outside the door of my room. I caught my husband's hand in one of my own, and with the other turned the knob of my door and opened it. Then I drew him inside, closed the door behind us and immediately threw my arms around his neck and held him tight while I voiced a vehement protest.

"If you dare say anything like that again, I'll—"

He had put his own arms around me, and when I had finished, he kissed me warmly.

"My own loyal girl," he said. "Was there ever a wife like you? You take the sting out of everything. And you never think of yourself. You must be terribly fatigued."

"I am," I admitted, "but there is nothing the matter with me that a good night's rest won't cure. But I want to be sure that you're going to get one, also. You are more near exhaustion than I am, though you won't admit it."

"I'll admit one thing," he said with a grim little smile. "I'm ready for whatever pile of hay is ready for me. I suppose, as per usual when the house is full and the Underwoods are down, old Harry and I are to bunk in my room, while Lil crawls in with you."

"That's what we'll have to do tonight, for the house is certainly full to overflowing. Katharine is rigging up cots for the boys in the nursery sitting room so that Edith may have their room."

"Tough on the kids," he commented. "And, by the way, what's to be done about Ede? I didn't quite sound an amen to that generous gesture of yours, you know."

"We're going to talk that over tomorrow—I mean today," I corrected myself, for indeed, it was well past midnight. "But not another word now. We are both too tired. Promise me you'll go directly to bed."

"I'm virtually there now," he said, kissing and releasing me. "But," he shook an admonitory finger at me, "what about you?"

Remains Awake.

"I also am virtually there," I retorted, smiling, but when he had gone out, closing the door behind him, I did not go to bed, although I changed my street clothing for dressing gown and slippers. I put out my light and lay down on the couch, which commanded a view of the hall when I had set the door ajar, though so slightly that the ordinary passer-by would not notice it, especially as I first had put on the night light in the hall, which made effective shadows around my door.

I tried to tell myself that I was thus fulfilling only the letter of my promise to Dicky, because I wanted to be awake to talk to Lillian when she should come to my room for the night. But I knew that I had another reason or, rather, intuition, which made me lie awake and watching the semi-gloom in the hall outside.

And then it came, the thing for which I had been sub-consciously waiting. I heard a faint swish of silk, and then Princess Olina passed the crack in my door, pausing at the telephone outside it.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, December 20.

A lively day, with affairs moving briskly into new channels or into fresh environs, is indicated by the ruling transits. Changes of a not too radical nature may be advisable, especially in the development of out-of-the-ordinary things, such as inventions or novelties, or in the application of progressive ideas to old matters or systems. The new way of doing things may give stimulus to certain stagnations or static situations. Dare to be original. Concern about an elderly woman seems probable.

Those whose birthday it is are under the promise of a year which will give scope to the demonstration of original tactics or talents, with innovation, progressive and fresh ideas shattering congested situations or putting "fresh blood" into crystallized projects. Audacity and initiative may prove lucrative, even though rather startling or unprecedented. Be careful to safeguard the well-being of some elderly feminine connection.

A child born on this day may be very enterprising, productive and progressive, with talents enabling it to wrest static matters from frustrating ruts. It may be independent in thought and action, with bold new ideas and methods.

Hands Show Character

By MME. QUI VIVE.

Observers take notice of hands. Hands are significant. Those who look can read. Little Miss Useless has soft, dimpled ones. Mrs. Capable has hands that show strength and character. No matter what the contour may be, the length or shape of the fingers, human mitts can be made attractive, become a beauty asset of high value.

The manner in which the hands are used portrays temperament. The self-conscious girl doesn't know what to do with hers, tries to hide them. The vivacious, highly-energized young lady may do too much gesturing with hers; the calm, individual keeps them quiet, beautifully posed. Nearly always the yokel has clumsy hands, the lady of culture and breeding has fingers that are graceful and petal-like.

There's no way of hiding hands, no way of disguising them. There they are, right out in the public eye. With nails too highly tinted they sometimes are an irritation to the public eye, which is under a strain from the glimmer of blood red finger sheaths. New polishes are more interesting than the fire engine brand. They may be light or deep, but they have richness of color that does not attract a violent contrast to the skin. Bright red veneer may make normal skin look grey and dingy.

It is my opinion that the color of the polish should be selected according to one's occupation and the kind of clothes one wears. It seems silly for the housewife, with rough work to do, to have flaming nails which, when subjected to dish water and furniture polish, are bound to flake and look patchy. The pretty butterfly with nothing to do can indulge in exotic colors on her finger sheaths.

The shaping of the nails should be determined somewhat by one's job. Certainly long, clawlike shells are a nuisance. They appear dramatic, we grant, but when we see them on the waitress who is serving us we wonder if they don't get into the butter. On the typist they are a handicap. Always breaking because of the business of hammering typewriter keys. Better shorter nails, a subdued tint.

Nails that are too pointed look unfriendly, ready to scratch somebody's eyes out. A nice design is a lovely oval, filed not too far down the sides. This side filing practice, promotes a growth of thick, heavy cuticle that is ugly.

Don't let your hands grow old. It isn't enough to use a cosmetic lotion after washing them; there should be a lubricating massage at least once a week. Get a tube of toilet lanoline, apply vigorously. Thumb each finger from base to tip. Use a rotary motion on the backs of the hands. Do sweeping movements on the wrists and lower arms. Include the elbows. Elbows are always down-at-the-mouth looking, poor thing.

"The Authority on Authorities"

A BUST INDICATED

It is astonishing to note how much can be learned sometimes about a player's hand, even though he never makes a bid on it. The other three players at the table may say so much about their holdings that a blind kibitzer, listening to the calls of the other three, can tell that nothing is left over for the poor chap.

Most candy makers have their own pet recipes, but if they would like to augment their repertoire, they can try today's recipes.

Florida Fudge makes a nice beginning. The recipe is for two cups sugar, one cup fresh orange juice, one-third cup butter, few grains salt, one-half cup chopped nuts, one-eighth teaspoon cream of tartar and two tablespoons grated orange rind. Combine sugar, orange juice, cream of tartar, sugar and salt. Cook slowly to soft ball stage (238 degrees F.) Add nuts and orange rind. Cool. Beat until smooth and creamy. Pour into well-oiled pan and cut in squares.

Coffee Creams are always popular and this recipe is easy to handle. It calls for two cups sugar, one-third cup strong black coffee, one-third cup evaporated milk and two tablespoons butter. Blend sugar, coffee and milk thoroughly. Cook slowly, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved; boil rapidly to soft ball stage (238 degrees F.) Cool. Add butter. Beat until creamy. Turn onto buttered board or slab and knead until smooth. Press into square pan and cut in cubes. Makes one pound. Coffee may be the flavor in fondants and divinity fudge, the delicate color and unique flavor being especially popular.

Arabian Date Roll is made with three cups sugar, one cup rich milk, one package pasteurized dates (sliced) and one and one-half cups nutmeats. Place sugar and milk in sauce pan and stir over low flame until sugar is dissolved. Increase heat and boil to 238 degrees F. (soft ball stage.) Add sliced dates and cook to 242 degrees F. (two to three minutes)

COMEDY WITH SPEED
PASADENA, Calif. —(U.P.)—Hollywood, it is believed here, could learn something in scenario writing and production from local talent. Irving Zelinka, Joseph Hanson, students at Marshall Junior High School, with Margaret Dankers as faculty assistant, wrote, rehearsed and produced a one-act comedy in two hours.

Satisfy Sweet Tooth With Candy

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

The cause for a batch of home-made candy at Christmas to supplement the splendid commercial variety has been too well pleaded to need protracted argument. Even toddlers and ladies of leisure, who "never lift a hand" get out the pans and makings come Yuletide. A batch of fine home-made candy, all set out in a handsome box that can be used after the contents are but a sweet memory, is an inexpensive yet highly personal gift.

TWO CHAPTERS HOLD HOLIDAY FUNCTIONS

Zeta Rho Chapter Has Evening Affair at Coffman Home; Senior Unit Plays Bridge, Has Business Session.

BOTH CHAPTERS of Delta Theta Tau sorority enjoyed Christmas parties past night. Members of the Zeta Rho group were entertained by Miss Maxine Coffman, Lind avenue, and Miss Gerry Locke. Games were played during the evening with Mrs. James Ford and Mrs. John Douglas winning the awards.

The entire house was decorated with Christmas appointments, and the table was centered with a large silver and blue arrangement flanked by red candles. Each place was marked with tiny red candles made to look like lamps. Gifts were exchanged during the evening. The next meeting will be held Jan. 8 at the home of Miss Coffman.

The Susie Janis home on the Park avenue west road was the scene of Delta Theta chapter's party. Bridge was in play at four tables, with prizes going to Miss Helen Bunn and Mrs. Kenneth Woodman. A gift exchange followed the games, and luncheon was served at a long table, decorated in blue and silver.

During a short business session, conducted by Miss Maxine Jones, Mrs. Carl L. Adams, Miss Genieve Diesem and Miss Harriet Roth were named to serve on a committee in charge of a Christmas charity basket. Mrs. Ritchie Bittinger, a member from Ashland, was in attendance. The place of the Jan. 8 meeting will be announced later. Mrs. Ernest Geiger, Mrs. Clifford Faust and Mrs. Ward Ingraham were the hostesses last evening.

Readings Given By Children of Friendly House

A program of readings and music was presented by children from the Friendly House last night at the December meeting of the Central Methodist guild which was held at the home of Mrs. J. J. Swisher, Sunset boulevard, South Boulevard. Mrs. Russell Gimbel gave a talk, and showed pictures of the institution.

Mrs. Swisher was assisted by Mrs. A. J. Barker, Mrs. M. R. Guher and Mrs. Jack Roelof. There were 29 members and one guest. Mrs. R. K. Clark, present. Mrs. J. B. Roman read the devotions. The group presented Mrs. Gimbel, who with Mrs. Clark presided at the refreshment table, with articles for the children at Friendly House. The next regular meeting will be held Jan. 15 with Mrs. R. C. Paulson, 195 Home avenue.

Hiking Group Conducts Social At Nail Home

There were 28 members of the hike club of the Mansfield Business and Professional Women's club at the Christmas party held at the E. S. Nail country home on the Main street road last night. A Christmas tree, and other appropriate decorations were arranged by Miss Loretta Zeller. The program was in charge of the Misses Marie Weil and Minnie Loudon.

Games and contests were the diversion of the evening, and prizes were won by Fannie Rae, Nine Pollock, Wilma Harris. A buffet luncheon was served at the close of play by Mae Douglas, Grace Bonnell, Miss Pollock, and Stella Arras. A Christmas gift exchange concluded the social.

Helen Lorow Toastmistress For Dinner at Women's Club

SEVENTEEN members of Delta chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma sorority entertained ten members of Alpha Pi chapter of the group from Mt. Vernon yesterday evening with a Christmas party at the Women's Club. The large T-shaped dinner table was decorated with Christmas appointments and red tapers. Christmas corsages were the favors.

Miss Helen Lorow was the toastmistress and talks were given by Mrs. Harold Sargent president of Alpha Pi chapter and Miss Lucile Lorow president of the local chapter. Miss Helen Myers told a Christmas story after which the group sang carols and had a gift exchange.

Miss Helen Hartmann was hostess for the evening, and Mrs. Ambrose Middleton was in charge of the program. The Misses Leona Snyder, Clara Patton, Anita Strauch and Virginia Howard assisted Mrs. Middleton.

Members of the Mt. Vernon chapter have invited the Mansfield group to meet with them in March. The next regular meeting of the local chapter will be held on Jan. 22 at the home of Miss Reba Robinson, 187 South Foster street, with the Misses Winifred Black and Helen Lorow serving as associate hostesses.

Guests from Mt. Vernon at last evening's party included: Mrs. Luther Barre, Miss Wilda Clark, Miss Mary Claypool, Miss Viola Diebel, Miss Clara Eagle, Miss Ruth Grove, Miss Norma Keagy, Miss Fern Lewis, Mrs. Raymond Tulloss and Mrs. Sargent.

Bridge Played Monday By Study Club Members

Mrs. J. O. Hanley entertained members of the Little Flower Study club with a Christmas party at her home on Davis road yesterday evening. Bridge was the diversion at three tables, and score prizes were awarded to Mrs. Frank Mahoney, Miss Veronica Hanley, Mrs. A. R. Weber and Miss Marie Hecht.

Luncheon was served later at a long table decorated in keeping with the holiday spirit. Members then had a gift exchange. Mrs. Mahoney will have the paper at the next meeting, Jan. 8, with Mrs. T. J. McDermott on Sloan avenue.

LEAGUE MEETS.

Members of the Women's Labeled league of Richland county met for a covered-dish dinner in the C. L. O. hall last evening. The hall was decorated with Christmas appointments and a tree. Later in the evening a Santa Claus distributed gifts to all those in attendance. The meeting was closed with the singing of Christmas carols. The next meeting of the league will be held at the hall on Jan. 15.

ROUTINE SESSION.

Miss Pearl Wierman, worthy matron, was in charge of the routine business meeting of Ruth chapter. Order of the Eastern Star last evening at the Masonic temple. The next regular session will be held at the temple on Jan. 1.

POSTPONE SESSION.

There will be no meeting of the Delta Delphian club tomorrow. Members will meet at the library at 1:30 p. m. Jan. 10, Mrs. Orlo Smith, reporter, announced today.

Everyone appeared to be having a wonderful time at the Gamma Gamma sorority dance Saturday night in the ballroom of the Mansfield-Leland hotel. The top picture shows a part of the crowd dancing to the rhythms of Tommy Van's orchestra. In the lower pic-

HAVE PAL PARTY.

Debonair club members held their annual "Pal" banquet and Christmas party Monday evening at the Colonial Guest house, Wooster road. The dinner was served at a long table, decorated in keeping with the holiday season, and centered with miniature reindeer. Bridge was played at two tables, with Miss Eleanor Johns and Miss Helen Bowden receiving the high score gifts. The group also exchanged Christmas gifts. Another meeting, the date of which will be announced later, will be at the home of Miss Johns, Highland avenue.

PLANS PARTY.

Miss Thelma Reed, instructor of piano, is entertaining all her pupils tomorrow evening between 7 and 9 p. m. at a Christmas party at the Women's Club.

PACK BOXES.

Members of the L. A. Palmer class of the First Methodist church packed Christmas treat boxes for the children last night after a covered-dish dinner was served to 19. The Misses Gladys Banks and Mary Benedict were the hostesses. Mrs. Eva Harold will entertain the class at her home on Penn avenue, Jan. 30.

Mrs. Mary E. Thayer, 127½ South Main street, is leaving today to spend the Christmas holidays with her two daughters, Mrs. C. E. Conn and Mrs. R. A. Covert, and other relatives and friends in Detroit, Mich.

McDowell Club of Wooster Presents Program at Hotel

THE McDowell club of Wooster presented the program at a guest meeting of the Mansfield Music Study club last evening in the ballroom at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. The club gave a varied program of voice, piano and choral music.

Mrs. Carl Bridenstine and Mrs. John R. Williams were the pianists, while Mrs. Robert Patton, contralto, and Mrs. Walter H. Jones, soprano, were the soloists. Members of the choral group included: Mrs. Palmer

Elliot, Mrs. C. E. Neiswander, Mrs. Earl Lautenschlager, Mrs. Clyde Gault, Mrs. Warren Penn and Mrs. Jones. They sang Bach chorals and Handel's "Where Ere you Walk."

Mrs. John S. Jones will be hostess for the meeting of Jan. 8, when a choral program will be presented by the choral group of the club, assisted by the Jonathan Glee club under the direction of Albert Arnold. Miss Florence MacDonald directs the study club choral group.

Miss Austin Sings At Candlelight Evening Function

FORMAL attire was worn by all the members of the Monday Study club last night for the candlelight musicale presented by Miss Betty Austin at the home of Mrs. Wilford Workman, Beal road. Mrs. Lowell Bourns was associate hostess, and Miss Helen Bein introduced the guest artists. Miss Austin, accompanied by Miss Louise Seybold, sang eight numbers.

Her selections were "Angels Ever Bright and Fair" by Hadel; "Open Thy Heart" by Bohn; "Still Wie Die Nacht" by Bohn; "To My First Love" and "You'd Better Ask Me" by Lohr; "The Villanelle" by Eva Bell; "Acqua" by Maria-Zucca; "Songs My Mother Taught Me" by Dvorak.

Members of the club sang carols with Miss Bein at the piano, after which luncheon was served. The table was centered with a large cone tied with red ribbon, placed on a bed of greenery and flanked with candles. The Misses Frances and Florence Conn poured.

The next meeting will be Jan. 8 with Mrs. W. E. Slabaugh, Andover road. Mrs. William Bloor will assist.

Greek Letter Unit Has Progressive Christmas Party

An informal progressive dinner party was held by members of the Beta Sigma Phi sorority last night when they gathered for the first course at the home of the Misses Dorothy and Jane Bacon, Glenwood boulevard. The main course was served by Mrs. Gene Zediker at her home on Russell road, and Miss Beatrice Kochenderfer served dessert when the members arrived at her home on Highland avenue.

The guests went to the home of Mrs. Howard Peck, Braeburn road, for games, and prizes were awarded to Miss Jane Bacon, Miss Doris Goodenough and Mrs. Zediker. Mrs. E. K. Bacon and Miss Lena Colgan, sponsors of the sorority, were guests.

Friday evening of this week the Mansfield and the Ashland chapters will entertain with a formal open dance at the Mansfield-Leland hotel ballroom between the hours of 10 p. m. and 2 a. m. Tommy Van's orchestra will play. The next regular meeting of the sorority will be at the Bacon home Jan. 8.

IN THE RING

By OSCAR RUHL

New-Journal Sports Editor

JUST who is this guy Nile Kinick, Notre Dame would like to know. The Iowa idol just squeezed into the Notre Dame all-Opponents' backfield. Five men were put in the backfield to make room for Kinick.

Milt (We The) Piepuls was second-string fullback for Notre Dame this year. But he was the Irishers' chief ground gainer with 427 yards in 84 tries. He also was top scorer with 36 points.

"Honeyboy" Jones (Remember him?) and a recent opponent have been barred from boxing in Missouri because they staged an "incompetent fight."

There's that football team which lost seven games last fall to the accompanying dirty crack that "those guys must be building up to Chicago."

It now seems that Chicago simply was making a grandstand play in its efforts to obtain certain concessions in eligibility. Some thought it was a play for sympathy from the Big Ten, but the real object certainly must have been to arouse and shame the administration and those who had let down the Maroons in a football way.

Actually, nobody can really lose in the Rose Bowl. Each club gets about $115,000.

BOWLING has come a long way in the last few years. Once "forbidden" because it was connected with the now non-existent dusty combination pool rooms, the game has reached the "big business" scale. Bowling has reached its all-time high because it is a family sport. Whether you're a humble beginner or a crackerjack, there's some league for you to bowl in.

One of the better ideas for altering slightly the gridiron rules is this—After a touchdown on field goal, instead of letting the team just scored on have the choice of kicking or receiving, give the choice to the team which is behind.

Francis Schmidt and Elmer Layden received just one vote apiece in the recent "Coach of the Year" poll.

Washington baseball fan has an idea: A fluctuating admission scale for major league ball parks governed by the caliber of the visiting team. For instance: $1.50 for the Yanks, $1.25 for the Red Sox, etc. It'd probably be Bank Night when the Browns came to town.

Wisconsin's football team's season was still good enough to beat the budget.

POSTPONE CAGE TILTS IN SETTLEMENT LOOPS

The Friendly House Senior colored and intermediate white basketball leagues postponed tonight's games until Friday night, Mike Wentz, boys' director, announced today. He also stated that the Junior Optimist and Ranger club leagues will not play this week. The Senior Class A league, however, will be in action Thursday night. Postponement of games is due to Christmas programs this week at the settlement.

NEW HAVEN TACKLES TWO FOES THURSDAY NIGHT

The New Haven Yellow Jackets will not meet Monroeville Thursday night as originally scheduled. New Haven plays a doubleheader at New Haven against Ruggles high and the Alumni. A third contest on the Thursday night program tosses the Willard faculty against the New Haven faculty. Activities get under way at 7 p. m.

Scores 16 Goals as Bushnell Roms Over Woodland, 46-5

THE spectacular scoring exhibitions of 13-year-old Robert Jones is making it rather easy for Bushnell to retain first place in the Grade School basketball league championship race.

Jones topped his individual performances so far this year by garnering 32 points at Senior high yesterday as Bushnell walloped Woodland 46 to 5, for its sixth straight win. Jones played three quarters.

Carpenter grabbed sole control of the runner-up post by duffing off Bowman, 13 to 6. Bowman had shared second place with the winners.

In the other contests, Newman beat Ingle, 11 to 4. Brinkerhoff topped Western, 13 to 6. West Fifth halted Prospect, 15 to 5.

Butler Plays Fredericktown

BUILDUPS ENTERTAIN MORROW COUNTY CLUB TONIGHT.

Court hostilities involving Richland county teams swing into action on two fronts tonight.

Although no county league games are on tap, Coach Bob Burgett's Butler high Bulldogs hold the interest of county circuit followers by entertaining Fredericktown.

Plymouth, the other county club playing this evening, treks to North Fairfield for a Twin-Valley league tussle.

Rivalry in the county league title chase, however, gets under way Wednesday night when Union high, which shares last place with Butler, invades Madison to tackle the Rams.

On Thursday night interest will center on Ontario where Coach Orv Kibler's Warriors, tied for the runner-up position in the county loop race, play host to the undefeated Bluejays of Belleville high. Belleville will be seeking its fourth straight circuit triumph.

A North Central Ohio conference contest Thursday night sends the Gallion Orangemen against the Harding high Presidents at Marion.

Lexington will also perform Thursday, invading Johnsville in a non-league game.

Friday's activities in the county league will be limited to one tussle. The setto finds Butler traveling to Lucas to meet the Cubs.

North Central Ohio conference tilts Friday sees the Shelby Whippers playing at Mt. Vernon and Ashland at Bucyrus.

Mentor Vern Hoffman's Mansfield high Tigers, who smothered Elyria, 61 to 17, in their last appearance, goes to Canton to clash with the McKinley Bulldogs Friday night. It is the only affair scheduled for the Tigers this week.

The Onondagas of Crestline high will attempt to add another victim by battling Gallion at Gallion Saturday night.

Hungry Public Snaps Up 15,000 Bowl Tickets.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Fifteen thousand tickets to the Tennessee-Southern California battle in the Rose Bowl were held out to a hungry public today, and promptly snapped up.

The block was offered according to Tournament of Roses-Pacific Coast conference custom as apportionment to Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Fan and the little Fans, who can't obtain tickets to this post season grid classic through channels open to alumni and Rose Bowl patron groups. Hundreds were disappointed at the quick sale.

Knocks Liederkrantz Out of First Place

AMERICAN LEAGUE COLLECTS 2854 PINS as it Wins Pair From Team Tied With Optimists.

A TOTAL of 5,704 pins was socked to the pits in the American League-Liederkrantz club match in the Club league at the Meder alleys last night, with the ex-servicemen gaining a four-pin edge and a pair of victories with a 2854 series.

Shooting scores of 245, 203 and 193, for a 641, Brig Young led the Legionnaires to games of 940, 905 and 1009. Jim Will contributed a 612, with a 232 last game.

The Liederkrantz leaders were Clyde Ritter, 619; Harold Selby, 604, and Henry Michaels, 602. The defeat of the Liederkrantz club enabled the Optimists to gain club ownership of first place. The Optimists, led by Art Hilborn's Schoolmasters to climb one game ahead of the Liederkrantz kiegles.

Fete Linster came through with a 604 as the Richman Clothes added two wins at the expense of the Commercial Managers, the Tracy & Avery five collected two wins in its match with the Page Dairy, the Kiwanis club swept its series with the Mansfield Savings Bank and the Lumbermen Mutuals took three games from the J. A. C. club.

W. Maboe of the Tappan C. R. club, Tappan Stove league, hit the uprights for a 606 count.

STAGE "TOURIST BOWL" GRID TILT AT DENVER

DENVER (INS)—Out of a welter of hectic and lengthy negotiations, Denver today finally drew a New Year's day football contest.

B. E. Darrell, spokesman for a local "Tourist Bowl" association, announced that San Jose State, highest scoring team in the nation, had agreed to meet St. Mary's University of San Antonio, Tex., known as the country's most widely-traveled team, in the Denver University stadium.

JENKINS TRYING TO GET AMBERS IN TITLE BOUT

NEW YORK (INS)—Hymie Caplin headed for the boxing commission today with $1,000 for fight check and a challenge for lightweight champion Lou Ambers to meet his new knockout sensation, Lew Jenkins of Texas.

Manager Caplin and promoter Mike Jacobs of the 20th century club regard Jenkins the outstanding lightweight challenger by virtue of his knockout victory Friday night over Billy Marquart of Canada.

MONTGOMERY WILL NOT PLAY IN COTTON BOWL

BROCKTON, Mass. (INS)—Lou Montgomery, colored halfback of the Boston college football team, will not accompany the squad south for the Cotton Bowl game, it was learned today. Montgomery, a regular was benched on two previous occasions when his team met southern universities. His team plays Clemson Aggies of South Carolina on New Year's day.

PACE-MORGAN SOUGHT FOR CLEVELAND BOUT

CLEVELAND (AP)—Promoter Bob Brickman hopes to sign George Pace, of Cleveland, and Johnny K. O. Morgan, of Detroit, today for a world's championship bantamweight bout here Jan. 12. Pace's next contest is a non-title affair against Johnny Gaudes in Milwaukee Jan. 1.

Permits 2.54 Runs Per Game

Lyons, Feller and Ruffing Follow Boston Veteran In Mound Averages.

NEW YORK (INS)—Lanky, gray-haired Robert Moses Grove, who'll be 40 on March 6, was the greatest pitcher in the American league last season, according to the official averages released today.

Given up for through late in the 1938 season because of a "dead arm," Grove made the outstanding comeback of the 1939 season. The Red Sox southpaw led the regular pitchers in earned runs with an average of 2.54 for 23 games and was fourth in the won and lost column with 15 victories and four defeats for a percentage of .789.

It was the ninth time in 15 years in the American league Grove has led the pitchers with the lowest earned run average, and the seventh time he has allowed less than three earned runs per nine inning game. Since he started with the Athletics in 1925 Grove has won 286 games, more than any other pitcher still active in the big show, and pitched 285 complete games.

DENIES THOMAS WAS TOLD TO LOSE FIGHTS

CHICAGO (INS)—Nate Lewis, the "bald eagle" who once managed heavyweight fighter Harry Thomas, was on record at the Illinois Athletic commission today with a denial of charges that Thomas was told to lose two major fights.

An affidavit, signed by Thomas and stating that the outcome of bouts with Max Schmeling and Tony Galento were pre-arranged, was read into the commission record as the third session of the Illinois commission opened yesterday and Lewis promptly testified the charges were untrue.

On the other side of the fence, Feller walked the most men, 142 and unfurled the most wild pitches, 14. Vernon Kennedy, pitching for both the Tigers and Browns, lost the most games, 20, while winning nine. Lee Ross, Athletics, was knocked out of the box the greatest number of times, 22. High man in earned runs was Jake Wade, Red Sox, with a record of 7.45 in 24 games.

There were only four 20-game winners. Besides Feller, they were Red Ruffing, with 21 and 7, Emil Leonard, Washington, with 20 and 8, and Buck Newsom, Tigers, with 20 and 11. It was the fourth straight year Ruffing has won 20 or more games. By beating the Tigers May 25 he scored his 200th major league victory, becoming the fifth pitcher still active in the big show who's reached that total.

OHIO STATE MERMEN TO INVADE FLORIDA

COLUMBUS (INS)—The swimming team of Ohio State University was en route to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., today, to exhibit its wares in the national aquatic forum opening there Dec. 25.

Paced by their national champion divers, Al Patnik and Earl Clark, the Bucks were expected to give a good account of themselves.

SEWAGE PLANT EFFICIENCY HIT BY REPAIR WORK

Turner Reports 3 Per Cent Drop in Treatment, Purification During November.

Mechanical repairs at Mansfield's sewage treatment plant last month accounted for a decrease in both the volume of sewage treated and the percentage of purification, Plant Superintendent J. R. Turner reported today.

Turner's figures showed that 97 per cent of all sewage entering the plant last month was given full treatment, as compared with 100 per cent in October.

It also revealed that sewage given full treatment had a purification percentage of 93 per cent, also three per cent under the October report.

A total of 81 million gallons of sewage entered the plant in November, Turner said, and 79 million gallons were given full treatment. Two million gallons were by-passed after 50 per cent treatment due to minor repairs which were made in the final treatment equipment.

Operating Costs Down.

Operating costs, however, showed more than $1,000 decrease. Total cost of operation last month was $2,039 as compared with $3,119 the month previous.

The power bill at the plant totaled $908, of which $434 could have been saved, Turner said, had the gas produced from the sewage been utilized.

Turner has repeatedly recommended installation of a gas-driven engine to utilize the gas and eliminate the biggest part of an $8,000 power bill.

He also reported that more than a million gallons of sludge was now on hand due to lack of sludge drying equipment but that it would be reduced materially as soon as additional beds now under construction are completed.

He will provide medical treatment for persons on relief at a salary of $175 a month. Commissioners recently signed a contract with the General Hospital to handle cases requiring hospital care.

WITHDRAWAL OF UNION OKAYED

Labor Board Authorizes CIO Affiliate to Drop Out of Westinghouse Election.

The National Labor Relations board today had authorized the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, a CIO union, to withdraw from a collective bargaining election scheduled for Dec. 28 at the Mansfield Westinghouse plant, a dispatch from Washington said.

Employees at the plant will now decide whether they desire representation by the Westinghouse Employees Association, Inc., an independent organization formed two years ago.

In its request for withdrawal from the election, the CIO union contended that the election was "an attempt to throw Westinghouse workers into a premature test of sentiment on the subject of a collective bargaining agency."

The election was requested by the Westinghouse Employees' association which claims a majority at the plant.

EXCEEDS STATE

County's Sales Tax Gain Twice Increase for Entire Ohio.

Sales tax collections in Richland county for the first week of December were up $1,089 over the same week last year, an increase of 8 per cent as compared with 3.5 per cent in Ohio, the state treasurer's report showed today.

The increase in receipts for the entire state was $35,468. So far this year, the average gain in Ohio has been 15 per cent.

Collections in the county for the first week of December totaled $12,462 as compared with $11,373 for the corresponding period in 1938.

Richland county's 1939 receipts are $83,812 ahead of last year, with this year's collections amounting to $462,406 against $378,594 for a similar period in 1938.

Casino Reopens For Gambling In Spite of European Conflict.

MONTE CARLO — (AP) — The Monte Carlo Casino has opened again for gambling.

This district, classed as a military region, is bound with numerous restrictions. But many of the big hotels which closed at the outbreak of the war are opening their doors.

With the aid of French tourist authorities who are trying to get the restrictions lightened, they hope for something of a season despite the war.

Operating Costs Down.

Operating costs, however, showed more than $1,000 decrease. Total cost of operation last month was $2,039 as compared with $3,119 the month previous.

Mansfield News-Journal AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

Good behavior is so common that it seldom gets on the front page.

Children of the Santa Claus-believing age seem rather puzzled as they encounter one in each toy department.

Men in Nazi Germany are permitted to buy themselves one new necktie for Christmas—but American wives are still allowed to use their own judgment.

Mail Parcels, Greetings NOW!

ALL INDICATIONS point to the heaviest week-end business the Mansfield postoffice has ever had and there will be a big advantage in mailing gift packages and greeting cards at the earliest possible moment—even in the case of gifts being sent only a short distance or cards for local delivery.

Christmas cards are now flowing through the mails by the thousands and there is no reason why mailing should be further delayed, as it is much better to have the greetings arrive a few days early rather than run the risk of having delivery held up until after Christmas.

Keep in mind that stamps can be secured and parcels and letters mailed at any of the three local sub-stations as well as at the postoffice. These sub-stations are at the corner of Springmill and Bowman streets; 175 Rowland avenue, and corner South Diamond and Altmont avenue.

Also remember that while a 1½-cent stamp will carry an unsealed greeting card, this is treated as circular mail, not subject to the quick handling of first-class mail, and that a 2-cent stamp for local delivery, or a 3-cent stamp for cards sent elsewhere in sealed envelopes, assures speedier delivery.

All packages should be carefully wrapped and securely tied before being mailed, also the address should be clearly written on the outside wrapper, with the name of the sender appearing in the upper left corner. Payment of five cents for minimum insurance, or more for articles of greater value, isn't a bad idea either.

Tomorrow is plenty late for mailing any gifts or cards that are in readiness—and by Thursday all should be ready and mailed.

Each Served His Community Well

MANSFIELD'S approach to Christmas has been saddened by the death of two of its well-known citizens, each of whom attained prominence in his own particular field of activity, and who, through many years, was active in community affairs.

The career of Charles M. Lantz was one that led through varied experiences, largely associated with the retail grocery business, but always with a display of sincere interest in the city that has been his home through a full half century. Appreciation of that interest in civic affairs was expressed in 1931 when Mr. Lantz was elected mayor of Mansfield, in which office he served for two terms, after having previously been a member of city council.

No better estimate of the kindness of Mr. Lantz can be given than that based on the assertion made yesterday by City Auditor Paul L. Kelley in telling of city relief work during the Lantz administrations: "I believe he gave away more money than he earned during those four years. I have seen him dig down in his own pocket many times and hand a needy person money."

In the death of Dr. John H. Bristol, Mansfield loses another of its links with the earlier history of this city, for Dr. Bristol's mind was a veritable storehouse of information regarding people and happenings around the turn of the century and thereafter.

His long association with the Mansfield public school system, in the capacity of clerk of the board of education, had value in coordinating the work of changing administrations, and his many civic activities, in addition to the duties of his profession, give an idea of the versatility and capability he possessed.

Each in his own way, these two men served their home community well, and both will be much missed.

Those Who Live In Darkness

THE LONDON ECONOMIST complains of the "increasing mood of frustration creeping over the British people." They try to keep up their courage about the war, with its all-round disturbance of normal life, with the extra-hard work done by all classes of people, with the smaller pay, higher prices and increasing burdens—and stumbling around in the dark at night.

That black-out experience is probably the worst of all. More than 3,000 people are said to have been killed in England from this cause alone—more than the war losses. There are tens of thousands of accidents. And there is the continual fear, indoors and outdoors, that comes from stumbling around, or from just sitting in the dark imagining dangers. There haven't been any air raids on English cities as yet.

What they need, apparently, is light, not darkness. They need it for practical affairs of life, and still more for the psychological effect.

Politics and Business

BUSINESS continues to operate at a good level. But, as William R. Kuhns, editor of Banking, recently observed, the real test will come after the first of the year. The sharp wave of war buying that shot the indicators up a short time ago will in all probability taper off. The most important thing to American business is domestic consumption.

Basically, the stage seems to be set for a continuance of the improvement. But mere optimism will not be sufficient to dispel the political barriers to sustained recovery which are a dominant factor today, even as they have been for ten years. As Mr. Kuhns wrote, "There are still the confidence-shaking national deficits, the dizzy buying of gold and silver, the rising pool of bank reserves, the apparent absence of any brakes on the credit machinery, and the disturbing uncertainties of an approaching election year."

There can be no continued business improvement in this country so long as capital must live in fear of political actions which take the profit out of doing business. It is easy to criticize the profit motive, but the fact remains that the profit motive was the dominant factor in this country's epochal industrial progress. It was the profit motive that made men build railroads, factories, power plants and grain elevators—even as it is the profit motive which makes a man start a hamburger stand. It is the profit motive, based on service, which is responsible for jobs, opportunities, economic and cultural progress.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Under our foreign policy of moral indignation we are taking in a heap of territory.

In the course of a year or so we have got the Japanese, the Germans, Italians, and Russians barking at us for one reason or another. Most of South and Central America considers us a fairly good sort of neighbor but Mexico grows cooler and cooler the faster the time approaches when she must deal with the United States, nation to nation, over the oil and land seizures instead of dealing alone with the dispossessed American owners.

One jolly suggestion is that if we get mad at numbers of nations in all directions we won't have time to get mad enough at any one to start whanging at it.

Making 'Friends.'

OFFICIALLY, we express our disposition in odd ways. We send a telegram of congratulations to President Vargas of Brazil on his escape from an assassin, but when a bomb misses Hitler no telegram is sent to say we are glad. We fulfill the bare diplomatic necessities by "signing the book" in the foreign office at Berlin.

In November, Russia celebrates the anniversary of the beginning of the Soviet Republic. We send no note of congratulations. In December Finland celebrates her anniversary of independence from Russia and we send an expression of "wholehearted esteem."

We give rather brusque notice to Japan of our intention to abrogate our commercial treaty, and follow it up by increasing naval and air forces at Honolulu.

How Doth The Busy Bee?

COME domestic strife or fierce foreign war, the bureau of standards proceeds on its quiet way studying the common things of life. It cautions that wool may be injured by sunburn even while on the back of sheep. It makes no mention of umbrellas for sheep. Instead, it worries about the amount of glass which dissolves from the inside of bottles containing food or liquid materials. We could say something tart on that last subject but you may have thought of it already.

The bureau pauses for no such frivolities but goes right on conducting tests on the wearability of silk stockings and floor bricks for sewers. Such application.

Tell It to a Woman.

WE CAN'T conclude without telling you of the sorrowful experience of Hans Thomsen, charge d'affaires at the German embassy. Reporters about town have found him an important source of background material. He has talked freely with the tacit understanding that nothing would be attributed directly to him.

But a gal society reporter, unversed in the ways of diplomatic reporting, found herself short of a story one day and went out to talk to him. He evidently talked freely and she printed the whole works, brightened by her own horrified comments at this and that. As a story it was a wow. The embassy put out a flat denial on it next day.

Who should call up the girl but the French ambassador, complimenting her on such an exploit. "I have cabled the whole story to my government," he said gleefully.

Worry Spurs New Deal Attacks

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—The bitter attacks of the New Dealers on Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio for the relief situation in the Buckeye state are not the result merely of a desire to smear a possible Republican nominee for the presidency. The fact that Bricker is frequently mentioned as a possible dark horse candidate, the fact that "downtown New York" is said to favor him over any of the open candidates—that is over Thomas E. Dewey, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan—lends zest to the attack. But it is not the main motive.

The main motive is the same as was responsible for the tremendous efforts of the Roosevelt administration in its first few years to smear the record of Andrew W. Mellon as secretary of the treasury. During the first few years of the Roosevelt regime, leaving out the first brief period of real economy when the government was slashing veterans' compensation, wages of clerks and everything else, the government was naturally plunging into debt. It disliked the contrast with the nine years of Mellon in the treasury, during which nearly ten billion dollars of national debt was paid off.

Health and Diet

Newer Ways To Treat Tuberculosis.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

MODERN methods of treating tuberculosis are an example of the advantage of team-work. In tuberculosis the combination of nursing and sanitarium, where these patients can have proper isolation, with the team-work of the physician, the x-ray man and the surgeon, is called for. Surgery, especially, has come to take an increasingly prominent part in the treatment of tuberculosis.

It used to be thought that a tuberculous cavity could be closed up and healed over by rest, but as more experience has accumulated observing physicians have come to believe that a tuberculous cavity never closes unless it is collapsed by surgical treatment.

The surgeon no longer fears to go into the chest and to treat the lung, so surgery has become a regular part of the treatment of tuberculosis. Several different operations have been devised. Almost all of them are based on collapsing the lung or allowing the lung to collapse so that the walls of the cavity are brought together.

The oldest form of this treatment is what is known as "pneumothorax." In this method air is injected into the chest wall. It is forced in under pressure until the lung is squeezed down to about the size of a small fist.

In most cases immediate improvement follows the induction of pneumothorax. The only difficulty is in getting the collapse to succeed. Other procedures are used. One of these consists in cutting the nerve which goes to the diaphragm. This, of course, paralyzes the diaphragm, stops movements in the lung, and also creates a collapse because the diaphragm rises up and compresses the lung, obliterating the cavity.

When the nerve is cut and then sewn together immediately, regeneration will occur in about four months, and the function of the diaphragm will be restored. Four months' time gives an opportunity for collapse and healing.

The most extensive surgical procedure is called "thoracoplasty" in which parts of the ribs are removed, allowing the chest wall, skin and muscles to contract down on the lung tissue.

Patients or their families need not be frightened at the thought of surgery in tuberculosis. It is now on a well-established basis and can be done safely and effectively. Practically every sanitarium in the country employs a surgeon to do one or the other of these procedures.

While surgery is employed principally for draining lung cavities and stopping infection and absorption, it is also very valuable in the treatment of hemorrhage.

In former days doctors were quite helpless in the presence of hemorrhage from the lungs because there was no way to ligate the bleeding vessel. In fact, no way to approach the bleeding surface at all. With collapse treatment, it can be stated quite definitely that no one should ever die of hemorrhage from the lung in tuberculosis.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The naval battle between the German pocket-battleship Admiral Graf Spee and the three British cruisers took place a long way from the U.S.A., but for American admirals it was extremely important.

For it settled the old feud inside the navy department between the eight-inch gun admirals and the six-inch gun admirals. That two inches in the size of a gun could rend the U. S. navy literally asunder is hard for the average layman to understand. Yet it happened.

It happened in the days from 1922 to 1935 when the size of cruisers was limited by international treaty. One group of admirals believed that the United States should build nothing but eight-inch gun cruisers, while another group, headed by Admiral William V. Pratt, believed the navy should have a few six-inch gun cruisers.

The row got so bad that the late Admiral Hilary Jones, who championed the eight-inch guns, came home in a huff from the London naval conference, and subsequently testified before a senate committee that the American delegation to the conference had sold America short.

By this time, every admiral in the navy was lined up on one side or the other. They belonged either to the Jones group or the Pratt group—with only two inches of a gun's diameter separating them. But these two inches seemed wider than the distance between heaven and hell.

Fast Six-Shooters.

ADMIRAL PRATT maintained that a six-inch gun cruiser could shoot faster, and was much more effective at close range, at night or in foggy weather, and that the American navy should have some of them. For holding this view, some of his fellow admirals would hardly speak to him, members of the senate foreign affairs committee berated him, and the last days of his active career were most uncomfortable.

But in last week's naval battle fought off the coast of South America, it was the two British six-inch gun cruisers, Ajax and Achilles, which chased the Admiral Graf Spee into Montevideo. The British cruiser Exeter, carrying eight-inch guns, was put out of commission.

The advantage which the six-inch gun cruisers had was that they could fire faster. Their shells were smaller and the guns were loaded by hand. On the other hand, the eight-inch shells of the Exeter and the eleven-inch shells of the Admiral Graf Spee were so big they had to be loaded by crane.

Also the six-inch gun cruisers were able to maneuver rapidly behind smoke screens and get close to the Admiral Graf Spee, thus canceling out its superiority in range.

Admiral Pratt is now retired, and sitting by the sea at Belfast, Maine. But this ability to shoot fast and to hide was exactly what he argued during the cut-throat war which split the navy for ten years.

Quack, Quack Ickes.

HAROLD ICKES not only can dish it out, but he can take it.

Toughest skit at the Gridiron dinner was one aimed at him. Ickes was represented in the figure of Donald Duck, who answered all questions in a hilarious ten-minute interview with a noisy "quack quack, quack." It was a murderous take-off.

Minnesota's young Governor Harold Stassen, who sat next to Ickes and was experiencing his first Gridiron show, was quite embarrassed. Finally, in an effort to ease the strain, Stassen remarked, "The boys get kind of rough at times, don't they, Mr. Secretary?"

"Quack, quack," shot back Ickes with a broad grin.

Telephone Diplomacy.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT, like any housewife, is struggling to keep down the phone bill. Despite economy efforts, however, the bill keeps soaring.

Trouble is that officials are developing the habit of picking up the phone and saying, in an off-hand way, "I want to talk to the Embassy in Havana."

Last (fiscal) year's telephone bill reached the tidy figure of

'Charlie' West Tests Political Winds for Third Term

OHIOAN SEEKS REACTION OF HIS OWN STATE

Opposes 'Tradition' A gainst Presidential Term in Talk, 'Gossips' With Friends.

By JOHN H. CALBURN (AP Staff Correspondent) COLUMBUS — Back-slapping Charlie West is sounding out third term sentiment for President Roosevelt.

Charlie gives the impression the president would accept renomination. He parries direct questions on the subject, but hints portray his feelings: and his machine-gun style of pro-New Deal oratory has every appearance of campaign material.

Combining congeniality with a "Howdy, Joe," "Howdy, Mike," knock for remembering names, Charlie—as he wants every one to call him—thinks prejudice against a third term for any president should be abolished and that now is as good a time as any to do it.

If popular sentiment were against a third term, he told a Columbus town meeting forum last night, surely some effort to restrict by law the term of president would have succeeded. He debated "should a president even run for a third term?" with national Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins, Republican of Ironton.

"There is no more justification for limiting the term of presidential service than there is for limiting service in congress and in the governorship," West said. "Any other course is contrary to the ideals of American Democracy and alien to the true spirit of our historic American tradition."

Jenkins cited "unwritten precedent" against a third term and added:

"To break the time-honored custom of two terms for a president and to elect him for a third, fourth and fifth term would launch us on a course that might irresistibly lead us to national destruction. When a dictator comes in the constitution and all it stands for goes out."

Jenkins expressed belief Roosevelt would lose a third term race.

Charles West's long legs carried him from the political science classroom of Denison university into the New Deal stronghold. He rode to the national house of representatives from the 17th district of Ohio on the Roosevelt 1932 landslide and two years later was the New Deal candidate for U. S. senator against victorious Vic Donahay.

President Roosevelt rewarded West's efforts with the job of undersecretary of interior, but West spent the time commuting between Capitol Hill and the White House and Secretary Ickes closed the office. Now West is making state political surveys for the president—a political ambassador without portfolio.

West told reporters the door "is wide open" to his own political future, but that he had no present plans for seeking office. He predicted Senator Donahay would run for re-election. Donahay has indicated his decision might be announced in January.

PAY TRIBUTE TO EX-MAYOR

City Officials Attend Last Rites for Charles M. Lantz.

The flag at the city building was at half mast today as officials of the city joined in a final tribute to Charles M. Lantz, former Mansfield mayor and businessman.

Funeral services were conducted at the Jones Memorial at 2 p. m. by Rev. Herbert S. Barnes, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church of which Mr. Lantz was a member.

Palbearers were former political and business associates of Mr. Lantz. They were: Councilman C. N. Shultz, Atty. William F. Black, County Prosecutor G. W. Marriott, E. Kallmerten, Harry O'Brien, Milton Conkey and James F. Carrigan, alternate. Burial was in the Lexington cemetery.

BROTHERS DRAW FINE AT ASHLAND

Arrested on Charge of Beating Up Proprietor of Candy Store in City.

ASHLAND — Two brothers, George and Harold, Jr., and Harold Stover, of north of Ashland were fined $10 and costs each on being arraigned before Judge C. W. Chorpington in police court here. They were charged with assault.

Charges were preferred by Tony Bahns, operator of the "Kandyland" after the two are said to have "beaten him up."

Only a short time after he had paid his fine, George, Jr., was in common pleas court testifying before Common Pleas Court Judge H. E. Culbertson in a divorce case he has brought against his wife.

Rev. Swayer Talks To Galion Rotary Club at Yule Party

GALION — "Why Do People Laugh?" was the subject of an address by Rev. Grover Swayer, pastor of First Lutheran church of Mansfield, when he was the guest speaker Monday night at the annual Christmas party and "Ladies' Night" of the Galion Rotary club. There were 42 members and guests present, and the ladies were presented with boxes of candy as Christmas gifts.

Other program features included group singing of Christmas carols led by Richard Patterson, with his wife at the piano; and selections by a vocal trio composed of Mrs. O. E. Hill, Mrs. Roger Godfrey and Mrs. L. E. Place, with Mrs. Patterson accompanying on the piano.

Other guests present were Paul McConnell and H. R. Slough of the Mansfield Rotary club, and Oliver Godfrey.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

was by proving that he belonged to any particular party.

"I don't think the way to prove that," Phillips declared, "is by showing that he's a member of the party, any more than you can prove that Carter Glass advocated the National Labor Relations Act because he is a member of the Democratic party."

The discussion of Communism developed while Phillips was testifying about the conduct of a labor board case involving the Cincinnati Milling Machine company, with Harlowe Hurley sitting as trial examiner.

Phillips told the committee that, acting on instructions of Nathan Witt, NLRB secretary, he explained to Hurley at one point the labor board's general instructions governing the admissibility of evidence.

Subsequently, he said, Hurley ruled out testimony which, according to Phillips, would have shown that Mike Michie, an employee who had been discharged by the company, had engaged in Communist activities.

Edmund M. Toland, committee counsel, read into the record NLRB documents to the effect that Phillips participated in the milling company hearing as an attorney. He said Phillips was acting in that capacity even while giving to the trial examiner instructions from Washington.

A majority of the house committee investigating the National Labor Relations board has reached a tentative decision to ask congress for major amendments to the Wagner labor act.

"Well-informed sources said today that all five members had discussed revision of the law informally and were considering parliamentary procedure under which the house could debate the subject."

There was no indication of the nature of the proposed changes, but the entire committee was represented as believing that the principles of the Wagner act should be retained.

When the committee hearing recessed yesterday, Phillips was being asked about a case against the milling machine company involving charges of discriminatory discharges and maintenance of a company union.

Toland, committee counsel, placed in the record yesterday a copy of a telegram in which Phillips told the labor board that the CIO, "claiming obligation to communists," was unwilling to dismiss certain complaints in exchange for a compromise settlement with the company.

Phillips testified repeatedly that one of two men dismissed had close Communist connections. He asserted, too, that Paul Fuller, the CIO leader in Cincinnati, had told him the discharge complaints could not be dropped because the union protected its members without regard to their political or other affiliations.

Phillips sent the telegram to Washington, two years ago, after the company had said it was willing to stop recognizing its union if the board would drop its accusation of unfair dismissals. The message said:

"There is no doubt that discharge was union activities and that company discovered Communist activity later. Have interviewed witness personally and he admits being active in Communist party."

"Company is willing to have consent decree entered withdrawing recognition from company union as bargaining agency, etc., but insists we drop discharge cases in exchange."

"Local CIO unwilling to do so, claiming obligation to communists such that they must proceed. Please advise."

In Cincinnati last night, Fuller characterized Phillips' telegram as "absurd."

SNOW IN SIGHT

Break in 'Cockeyed' Weather Seen in Today's Forecast.

The "cockeyed" weather won't be "cockeyed" much longer. At least that's the weather bureau's forecast today as the mercury hovered at 54 degrees at noon, some 25 degrees above normal for this time of the year.

The light rain which started this forenoon is due to turn to snow some time tonight and will be accompanied by a marked drop in the temperature. Whether this will be a prelude to real winter is something even the weatherman himself wouldn't bet on.

The average temperature for the last 24 hours was 49.5 degrees, while the 14-year average for this week is 28.2 degrees.

CHECKS LEAD TO YOUTH'S ARREST AT MT. GILEAD

Sheriff Says Boy Admits He Forged Check, Stole Car and Diamond Ring.

MT. GILEAD — Clyde Kelly, 17, of Stewart, O., is being held in the county jail here today awaiting arraignment on a charge of forgery. Officers said he had confessed three unlawful acts.

Kelly was arrested Saturday night here by Deputy Sheriff M. C. Griffin after he had passed a $10 bogus check at the Kenneth Caris service station here. Becoming suspicious, Caris phoned Lloyd V. Lust of north of here whose name was signed to the check and found that the check was no good. He called Sheriff Oscar George who began an immediate search for the youth. Kelly had previously cashed two $9 checks with Caris and they are reported to have been forged also.

A total of $75 in checks, all allegedly forged with Lust's name, were found on Kelly's person. He had stolen the checks from Lust for whom he had done some work, the sheriff said.

After questioning, Sheriff George said, the youth confessed that he was driving a stolen car, taken in Columbus on Nov. 4. Investigation showed that the car had belonged to Mrs. Alice Vance of Piqua and that the Buckeye Casualty company had already settled the claim with her. License tags used on the car had belonged to Kelly and had been used on a car he had junked.

Kelly also confessed the theft of two rings, one a $100 diamond, a locket and an automatic pistol from the home of C. V. Ellis of North Bloomfield in September.

Sheriff Oscar George, Miss Esther Ellis, the owner of the diamond ring, and a friend went to the boy's home near Stewart Sunday and recovered the ring and other articles.

Kelly had been staying with a cousin, Francis Kelly, Morrow county dog warden, prior to his arrest. Sheriff George reports that Kelly had been under suspicion for some time.

60 SCOUTS AT YULE PARTY

LOUDONVILLE — Sixty Loudonville Boy Scouts attended a Christmas party last night at scout headquarters. Ray Beardsley, former scoutmaster, was the speaker, and motion pictures of scout activities were shown by Floyd Dent of Mansfield, area scout executive. Arrangements were in charge of John Solomon and Arthur Young.

Present First of Evening Christmas Carol Programs

A series of evening programs of Christmas carols was started last night when the Hedges Mothersingers and an instrumental group from the Eugene Smart studios presented a number of selections.

The carols were broadcast from the Smart studios and carried over the downtown district by means of a public address system. Similar programs will be presented tonight, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings by Mansfield musical groups.

Tonight the Jonathan Glee club, under the direction of Albert Arnold, and the First Christian church choir, directed by Mrs. Herman Clingan, will sing the carols.

Tomorrow night the First Presbyterian choir and the Junior High school chorus will be heard, and on Thursday night the German Leidekrantz and St. John's Evangelical and Reformed choir will sing. The First Methodist choir and the Central Methodist singers join for the program Friday evening. Saturday night, a transcription program will be presented with community singing in Central park, directed by LeMoine Derr, director of vocal music in the public schools.

The evening carols are sponsored by the Mansfield Public Park association.

"There will be no regular mail deliveries on Christmas day," Homberger said. "Only gift parcels and special delivery mail will be delivered on that day."

American-Born Widow of Famed Kipling Stricken

LONDON.—(P)—Mrs. Rudyard Kipling, widow of the author and poet, died at her home today in Sussex.

The former Caroline Starr Balestier was born in Brattleboro, Vt. She and Kipling were married in 1892 in London, but returned to Vermont for a honeymoon and remained four years while Kipling wrote some of his most famous works.

Mrs. Kipling, who had been ill for an extended time, would have been 74 Dec. 31.

The American-born woman met the writer in 1890, when he was collaborating with her brother, Wolcott Balestier, on "The Nau-lakha." They were married two years later, the year "Barrack Room Ballads" was published.

They had three children, two daughters and a son, Lieut. John Kipling, who was killed in the World war.

News of Mrs. Kipling's death was telegraphed to friends in London by a daughter, Mrs. George Bambridge, the only surviving member of the family. A second daughter, Josephine, died at the age of six.

Mrs. Kipling died at the Bateau's, Buryash, home where her husband spent the last years of his life.

During his stay in America, Kipling wrote "Captains Courageous," "The Jungle Books," and some of the poems in "The Seven Seas." He grew tired of the attention given him as a literary celebrity and left for his native England, neighbors of the couple recalled. Kipling died Jan. 18, 1936, at the age of 70.

Santa and the TALKING DOLL

by SIGRID ARNE

THE STORY SO FAR: Eric has found the trolls' cave where Leezen, a doll, is being kept prisoner. She is a magic doll made by the fairies to talk after midnight. She was made especially for the King of Westphalia.

CHAPTER 14
The Task.

FOR two days and two nights Leezen had stood in the trolls' cave without moving. That was quite simple in the day time. But after midnight, when she could walk and talk, it was very difficult.

After the trolls went to sleep each night she would open her eyes very carefully, and look about. "Where is this?" her heart would pound. "Who are these three old men?" But she didn't dare move because the trolls went to sleep, lying on the floor at her feet. She couldn't step over them without waking them.

But the third night when the moon reached the top of the sky, she opened her eyes and there sat Eric, laughing up at her mischievously, and piping a little dance tune. The white fox lay curled nearby.

Leezen stepped quickly to Eric's side, felt his sleeve as though she didn't believe her eyes, and then smiled. She said, "I knew you would come. I knew the King of Westphalia, with all his army, couldn't do as well as you."

Eric jumped to his feet and bowed very low, and then laughed saying, "Now where shall we go?"

"Oh, let us go to the kingdom beyond the sun," said Leezen. "I have heard the fairies talk about it. Flowers always bloom there, and no one is ever angry."

"Very well," said Eric, and the white fox will go with us." So Eric took Leezen's hand. The fox trotted after them, and they left the cave and started down a wood-comprehensive report on the sinking of the Admiral Graf Spee off Montevideo.

Returning to the White House after a quiet week-end at his Hyde Park, N. Y., home, Mr. Roosevelt awaited full details from Hull before deciding what steps, if any, this government might take.

The running sea battle which brought the Graf Spee into Montevideo harbor violated the so-called "security zone" which American republics recently designated around the western hemisphere. The president presumably was considering the possibility of a formal protest to Great Britain and Germany.

The chief executive kept in close touch with the state department yesterday, and there were indications he might have some comment later on the Graf Spee sinking.

Mr. Roosevelt left his Hyde Park home last night in company with his daughter, Anna, and her husband, John Boettiger, Seattle publisher.

The president, reaching Washington at the breakfast hour, had a cabinet meeting on his program for the afternoon.

There was a flash of light and . . . there stood the Queen of Fairies, stood there surrounded by tall, silent pine trees.

"Why, how can we get out of here, if there is no path to lead?" said Eric. There was a little flash of light and a "pop" at his feet. There stood the Queen of Fairies. She looked up at him gravely, and then she flew to his hand.

"Eric," she said, "you have upset our plans badly. You have broken a spell we put on this doll. You are both being selfish. You, Leezen, should be at the castle. That is what we planned for you, and that is why we gave you more gifts than we give to other dolls. And you, Eric, should be making a kingdom for yourself. You are the son of a strong father."

Eric frowned as he listened. He was very proud. Leezen looked down at her pretty blue slippers.

5 DEM JOBS AT STAKE TONIGHT

Council to Vote on Bill Turning Relief Over to County, Keep It in Democratic Hands.

second reading was held at a special meeting last Thursday.

The measure would authorize Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist to enter into a six-month contract with the county at a cost of $550 monthly. Supervision and appointment of personnel at the relief office would pass to the commissioners, who formerly administered relief in the city and county. All three commissioners are Democrats.

Mayor Hunter previously said he did not intend to summon council again this year to pass on the measure, but he explained yesterday that tonight's session had been called to dispose of the matter so the commissioners "will know where they are at."

DECIDE TONIGHT

Commissioners, T. B. Board to Act on Home for Patients.

County commissioners are due to meet tonight with the county T.B. advisory board to decide whether to buy a hospital or build one for county T.B. patients.

The meeting is set for 7:30 p. m. at the home of Dr. John S. Hatlery, chairman of the advisory board.

Commissioners proposed the purchase of the Eleanor Thomas sanitarium on Lexington avenue if it can be obtained for a "reasonable figure." Members of the advisory board suggested, however, that it may be best to build a hospital to state and county specifications.

Commissioners said they can spend only $25,000 a year for buildings from the $45,000 provided by a new T.B. levy voted a year ago. The levy goes into effect in 1940.

Clever, These Finnish Fliers!

HELSINKI—(AP)—How a Finnish flyer bombed a Russian air base in comparative safety was related today as one of the most dramatic exploits of the war.
Following the capture of an undamaged Russian plane at Suomussalmi, on the northern front, a Finn airman took it up and joined a Russian air squadron.
He then calmly flew back to the Russian base, bombed it and escaped.

been destroyed or captured in the three days of fighting.
The fighting has extended 120 miles, from the isthmus along Lake Ladoga.

'Rough Days Ahead,' Churchill Warns.

LONDON—(AP)—With fierce acceleration of war at sea and in the air, Britons have been warned by Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, that "rough and violent times lie ahead."

The full scope of aerial and naval combat as against the comparative quiet on the western front—was brought home with the disclosure that the greatest air battle of the war was fought yesterday over the German coast and Churchill's declaration that "a considerable proportion" of Germany's cruiser strength was put out of action last week.

The air ministry announced 12 of about 24 German fighting planes were shot down and seven British bombers "unaccounted for" after hot battle over Heligoland. Eight German North sea naval base.

The British airmen had gone there looking for German warships at sea, but found only a strong air force in action.
(Germans declared 21 of 52 attacking British planes were shot down.)

Also reported was a mass German air attack on 24 fishing boats off the east coast, six of which were sunk.

The British public, long impatient for action, also learned from Churchill last night in a hastily-prepared broadcast that the first Canadian expeditionary force had landed for a period of intensive training on British soil before going to the western front.

His broadcast dealt primarily with entrapment of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee and he subsequently scuttling at Montevideo. He cited the battleship's alternatives of internment, or "going out to fight and going down in battle" which would have been honorable for her.

However, he added:

"She discovered a third alternative. She came out not to fight, but to sink herself in the fairway of a neutral state from which she had received such shelter and succor as international law prescribes."

Churchill also listed these claims of victory at sea for the British, in addition to the scuttling of the Graf Spee:

Sunk in the North sea—One German submarine and one German cruiser of the 6,000-ton Koeln class (the Koeln, Karlsruhe or the Koensburg).

Crippled by torpedoes in the North sea—The 6,000-ton cruiser Leipzig and the 10,000-ton cruiser Bluecher or her sister ship, the Admiral Hipper.

Nazis Claim New British Air Defeat.

BERLIN—(AP)—A second British aerial attack upon German coastal defenses yesterday after the asserted loss of 34 British planes in a raid on Heligoland, revealed in authoritative German quarters today.

"Apart from the completely unsuccessful attack in which at least 34 British fighters were brought down," and announcement said, "British airplanes tried between 5:30 and 9:30 p. m. to fly toward the Frisian Islands."

"The British dropped bombs aimlessly which for the greater part fell into the water. No persons were hit and no objects damaged. Anti-aircraft artillery drove the enemy aircraft away."

"Near Ameland there was action in the air between German reconnaissance planes sent to the coast of England and British Wellington fighters, which had escaped from German pursuit planes at Heligoland."

MITES MONDAY

MT. GILEAD—Private funeral services were held here Monday afternoon for George A. Dennis, 50, prominent Mt. Gilead building contractor and interior decorator, who hanged himself in a barn at the rear of his home Saturday afternoon.

The funeral services at the home were in charge of Rev. L. Eugene Rush, pastor of Trinity Methodist church. Burial was at Cardington.

COSTLY 'SOCK'

Mansfielder Fined $10, Given 30 Days in Jail for Assault.

Mike Miller, 280 South Main street, was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail today for "taking a sock" at a man who allegedly "had said something about him."

Miller was arrested for assault and battery on complaint of Jacob Meisser this morning. Miller told Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch that he had "socked" Meisser because he had heard that the latter had called him a name.

The court then imposed the fine and revoked a former suspended sentence of 30 days in jail on a similar charge earlier in the year.

COUNCIL OK'S SALARY HIKES

Unanimously Approves Boosts
in Pay for Water Employees,
Junior Fireman.

SHELBY—Ordinances increasing the salaries of the operators of the municipal water company and Junior Fireman Edward Lysinger were approved unanimously Monday night at the last session of the present city council. The newly elected city officials and council members will take office at the regular meeting of council Jan. 2.

The ordinance approved by council increasing salaries of three operators and the chief operator at the municipal water company will go into effect Feb. 1, 1940. The operators will receive a monthly increase of $15, and the chief operator an increase of $10 a month. At present the operators receive a monthly salary of $85, while the chief operator receives a salary of $100 per month. The new ordinance sets up a schedule of $100 a month for the operators and $110 for the chief operator per month.

Junior Fireman Lysinger will receive an increase of $15 a month. The ordinance will go into effect in 30 days. His present salary is $1,200 a year. The increase will raise his salary to $1,215 a month or $1,380 a year. Lysinger will complete his second year of service in the department next May.

Both ordinances passed without comment. Councilman Charles Swanger, who opposed the increase of the operators salaries on the first two readings of the ordinance, supported the measure on its third reading and final passage. Councilman-at-large Charles Dye was absent from the meeting.

Other business acted upon by the council were resolutions transferring $1,200 from the general fund to the athletic drive fund to pay for the construction and improvement of the street and $200 from the general fund to the WPA records project fund. Both passed at the meeting.

BUCYRUS—Samuel Cover, 84, a retired carpenter and life-long resident of Brokensword, died at the home of his son, Garner Cover, Monday afternoon after an illness of 18 months.

Surviving are two sons, Garner of this city, and Roma of Brokensword; a brother, Adam Cover of Brokensword and five grandchildren. He was a member of the Evangelical church.

Private funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Thursday at the Henderson and Lutz funeral home, with public services at 2 p. m. at the Brokensword Evangelical church. Rev. N. M. Keck will officiate and burial will be in Brokensword cemetery.

WPA WORKERS HOST AT PARTY

Families To Be Guests At Yule Entertainment Thursday.

Richland county WPA workers and their families will have a Christmas party Thursday night when the county Worker's Alliance will be host at an entertainment in the Alliance hall, 15 1/2 North Park street.

A musical program, starting at 8 p. m., will include numbers by a trio composed of Harley Kent, Irene Bricker and Harold Bricker and songs and guitar selections by Pauline Snair and Jewel Dillon.

Children will be given "treats" purchased with the receipts of a motion picture show sponsored last week by the Workers' Alliance. Preceding the party, the Alliance will hold a brief business meeting.

DEM LEADER'S A DAD

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Michael A. Feighan, Democratic floor leader of the Ohio house of representatives, announced today that a daughter, weighing eight pounds, five ounces, was born to Mrs. Feighan Sunday. It was the Feighan's third child and first daughter.

As Graf Spee, a Flaming Wreck, Went Down

This exclusive air view shows the Admiral Graf Spee, German pocket battleship, afire from stern to stern and sinking in the roadstead just outside the harbor of Montevideo, Uruguay. The ship had been blasted by her own crew, who thus avoided almost certain capture by Allied war vessels. This picture was down from Montevideo to Buenos Aires, Argentina, and from that point radioed to the United States. The Graf Spee's captain and crew got away safely.

Toledo Hikes Relief Budget To Avert Hunger On Christmas

(By United Press)
TOLEDO, O.—An ordinance increasing the monthly relief budget of Toledo from $50,000 to $100,000 had been approved by the city council today as the city relief administration sought to take care of the most needy cases before Christmas.

The council approved a report setting up the order of priority in which new relief cases will be considered. The report had been prepared by the welfare department and a committee of the Toledo council of social agencies.

First consideration will be given to cases requiring special diets prescribed by doctors. After these, in order, will be employables without income for rent, fuel, food or clothing, and those without sufficient income to cover basic needs; employable families without income and with children under 18; able-bodied single persons; employable couples, and families composed of adults exclusively.

The expanded budget was expected to care for 3,000 more families than the previous budget in the emergency relief fund established in September.

Nine carloads of surplus food commodities reached Toledo Monday from the national administration, including seven carloads of apples, one of Graham flour, and one of cornmeal.

Toledo's schools, closed since Nov. 23, will re-open Jan. 2, the board of education announced today.

Although it voted to re-open the schools, the board took no action on curtailments necessary to continue operation. The new board, with three holdover members, will be forced to decide on economies at its first meeting after Jan. 1.

Salary cuts, which will meet strong opposition, and elimination of kindergartens were considered the most likely measures. Closing of the schools last month, with a deficit of $800,000, avoided addition of another $300,000 to the debt, board members said.

DROPS CHARGES

Court Dismisses Cases Against
Two Men Held for Assault.

Two charges, one of assault and battery, and another of disorderly conduct, against Bob Jones, 24 1/2 Mansfield, were dismissed in municipal court this morning when the complaining witness, John Lindsay, failed to produce witnesses.

A charge of assault and battery against Jack Woods, which grew out of the same incident, also was dismissed. The two were arrested Saturday night on North Main street after Lindsay had told police that both men had struck him. This morning Lindsay failed to appear in court and when an officer was sent to bring him in, he was reluctant to testify.

THEATERS

WALT DISNEY'S "Pinocchio" will be heard over the Columbia network on Christmas night, presented with the original Disney cast. The radio broadcast will present Jimmy Cricket, Pinocchio's conscience; Monstro, the whale; Figaro, the kitten; Cleo, the goldfish; the Blue Fairy, Pinocchio, Gepetto, and all the other familiar and beloved characters. The next Buster Keaton comedy, to go before the cameras around the first of the year, has been entitled "Rolling Down to Reno." As a London "busker," or street entertainer, Charles Laughton does a song and dance routine with Vivien Leigh in "The Sidewalks of London," soon to be released.

"Remember?" At Ohio.

Greer Garson who was co-starred with Robert Donat in "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," returns to the Ohio theater Wednesday in her first American film, "Remember?" with Robert Taylor and Lew Ayres. Corey Ford, national magazine writer, humorist and scenarist, wrote the original story in collaboration with Director Norman MacLeod. They laid their scene in New York, with the swank Colony restaurant, a fox hunt, the World's fair, and palatial country estates among the varied and interesting backgrounds. Billie Burke heads the supporting cast.

Juvenile Skater At Madison.

Little Irene Dare, six-year-old beauty, acclaimed as the most skilful and graceful juvenile ice-skater of the times, is introduced to the movie audience in "Everything's On Ice," which opens Wednesday at the Madison theater for a three-day run. The cast also includes Roscoe Karns, Edgar Kennedy, Lynne Roberts and Eric Linden. Also on the bill is "Joe and Ethel Turp Call On The President," with Ann Sothern and William Gargan portraying the title roles created by Damon Runyon. Lewis Stone and Walter Brennan are in the supporting cast.

"The Champ" At Ritz.

"The Champ," one of the best films made by Jackie Cooper and Wallace Beery is being returned to the Ritz theater for a two-day showing beginning Wednesday. Beery plays a broken-down prize

LONG FIGHT TO GET WEALTH OF INDIAN NEAR END

Judge Expected to Name Legal Heirs to Millions After 4-Year Battle.

(By Associated Press)
MUSKOGEE, Okla.—Four years of litigation over the estate of Jackson "Crazy Jack" Barnett, the lovable Creek whose oil wealth gave him the title, "world's richest Indian," is nearing a climax.

Judge Robert L. Williams, who began hearings for claimants while he was on the federal bench and continued them through a term on the circuit court of appeals, is expected soon to announce the legal heirs.

More than 800 persons from several states and Canada have claimed shares of the $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 estate as relatives of the old fullblood who died May 29, 1934, at his palatial home in Los Angeles.

Barnett, who died at 92, knew only poverty until he was 77. During the Civil war, he lived in Kentucky and Tennessee. Later, he worked on a wagon freight line between Kansas and Indian territory.

Between 1877 and 1895 he operated a ferry boat across the Arkansas river near Muskogee for 30 cents a day. Then he moved to a small, rocky farm near Henryetta, Okla., built a one-room log cabin and acquired a pack of hounds.

Then, in 1919, oil was discovered on his land allotment and money began pouring into his account. Eventually, it amounted to about $10,000,000.

But Barnett, unable to grasp the significance of his wealth, remained in his cabin. With money issued to him by the agency, he bought some Indian ponies and a supply of nickel cigars and seemed contented.

When friends asked what he was going to do with his money, he replied that he was going to "keep it to pay off of." When travel was suggested, he would shake his head and say, "No good for old Indian."

Early in 1930, Mrs. Anna Laura Lone, a 40-year-old woman, drove to Barnett's farm and took him to Coffeyville, Kas., where they were married. The ceremony was repeated later.

They returned to Oklahoma for a time, then went to Los Angeles, where they built a stately white mansion.

But the government, as guardian for the illiterate Indian, charged Mrs. Lone was an "adventuress" who had "kidnaped" Barnett. An annulment suit was prosecuted unsuccessfully.

In 1927 the Indian placed his thumb print on two checks for $330,000 each, one for Mrs. Barnett and the other for the American Baptist Home Missionary society.

Again, the government went to court and obtained a refund from the society and a partial refund from Mrs. Barnett.

A month before Barnett's death, his wife virtually was eliminated as a claimant to his estate when Federal Judge William P. James of California ruled that her marriage to the Indian was invalid because he was mentally incompetent.

There were many ramifications in the fight over Barnett's "black gold" fortune. The House Committee on Indian Affairs once criticized A. B. Fall, late secretary of the interior, for permitting official approval of Barnett's wealth.

The ship was scuttled by its crew.

SEEKS RECRUITS FOR AIR CORPS

Army Officer Here Tomorrow to Take Applications.

Another effort to enlist young men in the United States army will be made here tomorrow when Sergt. George A. Keeling of the U. S. Army recruiting office in Akron will be at the Mansfield post office.

Applications will be accepted for vacancies in the air corps at Patterson Field, O., Maxwell Field, Ala., Fort Bragg, North Carolina, and in the 68th Anti-Aircraft Coast Artillery at Fort Williams, Me. Applicants for air corps vacancies must be between the ages of 18 and 35, single and with no dependents or police records, Sergt. Keeling said.

The recruiting officer will be at the post office from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. to accept applications and answer any questions on enlistments.

TELL BILL GOODBYE + + + + +

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

NEITHER Bill nor Ellen said anything then, and so it wasn't until after Dick left, after inviting them to his wedding, that she realized how Ellen might take her casual announcement that "of course" she would be going back to live with her mother.

"It isn't that I don't love it here, Ellen," she said with a wistful attempt to make the other girl understand, "because I do. But... but mother has a big place and plenty of servants." She realized that that was a mad way to say it, and finished desperately, "I'm still pretty weak in the knees and I need a lot of taking care of. I'm only a burden around here these days."

"You are not!" Ellen denied. "However much I shall miss you, I understand. With the wedding coming off and all that, it is natural for you to want to be with your mother and do all you can to help with the preparations."

Fabienne gave her a grateful glance. Dear Ellen; trust her to make it easy.

"I'm not sure I approve of it at all," Bill said calmly. "You're a lot better off here where we can keep an eye on you. It's going to be some time before you have your strength back. A round of parties isn't going to be the convalescence I recommend at all."

Fabienne gave him a glance of simulated hauteur and said, "Dr. Mallory, when I ask your professional advice—" Then she laughed. "Will you ever forgive me for that, Bill? I was beastly, ill-bred and—"

"Skip it," he said, standing over her with a broad grin. "But if you want any more names to call yourself I'll supply a few."

Ellen got up and went into the bedroom.

Fabienne said loudly, "I'm awfully tired, and I have a very good book. I think I'll go to bed. Good night, Bill. See you in church."

She held out her hand. "I'm still the physician in attendance," he reminded her. "And I have not discharged your case."

"Be a lamb and discharge it now," she told him. "I promise to sleep 14 hours a day, take my medicine and eat all the horrible fattening things you advise. When you see me at the wedding, you'll see a great improvement." She hoped that Ellen heard her, that Ellen would know she didn't intend to see Bill again until the wedding.

Ellen didn't hear her for the simple reason that Ellen was not interested in listening to what Bill and Fabienne had to say to each other. If only things were going as she hoped they would! Bill and Fabienne were her two favorite persons and she hoped that some day—

Fabienne came to her door. "Darling, don't feel that my going to mother's is anything more than a change—and what you said."

"I don't," Ellen said, smiling reassuringly. "I think a change will be good for you. You've been cooped up here much too long. But I'd like you to know that I want you back whenever you wish to come—IF EVER you wish to."

Fabienne did something she had never done before. She crossed the room and put her arms around Ellen, holding her close for a moment. Then with a little embarrassed laugh, she let her go, saying, "Ellen, there isn't anything I wouldn't do for you. And not one thing that would ever hurt you!"

Surprised by the other girl's intensity, Ellen said, "I know that Fab. Now, off to bed with you. You're still under doctor's orders."

From her own bedroom Fabienne called, "Darling, will you please bring home the copies of the first play we're to do? Bill said the parts had been copied. I'm awfully anxious to get to work on them."

"I'll try to remember," Ellen said, sighing. Bill had told her that Fabienne would not be able to go back to work for many weeks. "Those flu germs on top of too much work have left her far from well," Bill said. "The work at the settlement house is entirely too hard for her. She burns up all her energy and gives too much of herself."

She might as well tell her, not let her go on thinking that she must get back to work.

Reluctantly, Ellen went into Fabienne's bedroom and sat on the side of the bed. She said, "Listen, soldier, I'm going to exercise some of my authority. I'm not going to let you come back to work for a long time."

Fabienne's eyes widened.

"I want you and I need you. But if you start a project and break down in the middle of it, where will we be?"

"But I won't!" Fabienne protested.

"Fab, you're a grand worker, as I've said before, but I won't go against Bill's orders. If you want to confide your activities to organizing the theater group and directing it—and that will mean more than two or three hours' work at a time for not more than three times a week—come back when you are able. But I will not consider assigning you to anything else."

Fabienne was thinking of the long, lazy days ahead of her, so unlike those busy, busy days she had spent at the work she had come to love. The prospect was not inviting. And now, more than ever she needed work to fill up her time, to keep her from dreaming and longing and wanting someone she couldn't have. But she couldn't tell that to Ellen, so she nodded. "Okay, chief," she said. "But I can do the theater stuff?"

"Certainly you can. I'll bring home the play tomorrow."

After Ellen left, a small, horrible suspicion came to Fabienne's mind—was Ellen getting rid of her? She banished it at once. Ellen Chapman was incapable of anything like that.

Resolutely she turned her thoughts to the wedding.

LINER BECOMES GRIM FIGHTER

British Luxury Ship Goes Out to Do Battle With Enemy Raiders.

(By Associated Press)
LONDON—With powerful guns pointing from her sides, a 15,000-ton former British luxury liner will soon put to sea to battle with enemy raiders.
A black and white tiled swimming pool still stands on her pleasure deck but the deck-quoit courts have been removed and in their places are now lines of shell racks.
Rifle racks and alarm signals which will sound to send men to their action stations are to be seen over the entire vessel, and on the decks are fixed splinter proof mats ready to be fixed into position to guard the vulnerable parts of the ship against shell and bomb fragments.
The forward and aft cargo holds have been converted into ammunition magazines and over the wheelhouse the range finder and fire direction apparatus for the guns has been set up.
From all sides the long menacing barrels of these guns are to be seen and the former spacious first-class dining saloon has now been split into two to form a wardroom and a gunroom.

Finland's Ski Warriors In the Field

A detachment of Finnish ski troops is shown somewhere in northern Finland, crouched in the snow and ready for the Red invader. Trained to maneuver on skis, these warriors are effectively slowing up the Soviet war machine in the Petsamo area. This is one of first photos to reach the United States from northern Finland.
Emblems of the vessel's happier days are still to be seen, however, with a gold painted pillar gleaming here and there.
But the long windows through which peacetime travellers were wont to gaze are now shut in with heavy steel plates.
BIRTHDAY FEES ENDURE
NEW LONDON, Conn.—(AP)—Charles C. Perkins and Charles N. Butler have observed each other's birthday anniversaries for 25 years. Each year, with their wives, they celebrate the occasions at a dinner. Perkins is 75 and Butler 72.

MAYBE HE CAN USE 'EM IN '40

Discovers His Unused World Series Tickets In Last Envelope.
LOUISVILLE, Ky. —(AP)—Joseph J. Ballard, a circuit court clerk can go to the 1939 World Series now. He's just found his tickets.
Ballard wrote to a Cincinnati friend before the series and was promised four tickets "as soon as they go on sale." He didn't receive them and thought his friend had forgotten him.

When fiscal court clerks began moving to a new office, the tickets turned up in an overlooked, unopened envelope.
The principal ports of Ulster, Ireland, are Belfast, Londonderry, Coleraine and Newry. Belfast is the most important of them.
